10 ❧. God bless my good intendments and endeavors in this work. This daie I resolved with thassistance of my good God to reedefie the ancient Cathedrall [Chu]rche of Lismoor which was demolished by Edmond ffitz Gibbon, called the white Knight, and other traitors in [the] Late Rebellion of Mownster: The Chancell of which churche, I did at my own chardges of ccxvij^{li}. xiiij^{s}. ix^{d} ster: rebwyld, and put a new Rooffe covered with slatt, & plaistered and glazed, the[n] furneshing it with seated pues and pulpit; and now have given order to have the Ruyns of the boddie and Ile of that Church cleered, and to have the same new bwilt and reedefied, as faire or fairer then ever it was before.

10 ꝺ. I have alsoe this day given order to bwyld a new free school with Lodgings for the School master & Ussher, and an Almeshowse for owlde decaied soldiers, at Lismoor.

10 ꝺ. I have also this day given Lyke order to have one other ffree school, with Lodgings for the schoolmaster and ussher, and an Almeshowse consisting of six Tenements for owld decaied Soldiers & Tradesmen, to be presently begon and bwylt at my new erected town of Bandonbridge, agreable to the lyke ffree school and Almeshowse that God hath enhabled me to bwyld already in the Town of yoghall.

The Laste daie of october 1635, being Saterday in the evening, William Wiseman, Esqr., was married at [illegible] to my neec Alice Smyth, daughter to my [brother] in Lawe, Sir Richard Smythe & my sister the Lady [illegible] Smyth, with whome her ffather Sir Richard Smyth xj ꝺ. This day Tibbot Bowrck, Esqr., brother to the Lo. Viscount of Mayoe, made his humble submission unto me in his Lorde and brothers presence, for his Riottows and unlawfull attempt to break down forceably my salmon weares on the River of Moyn, neer my Mannor howse and Castle of Bealick, in the Barronie of Tirawlie, in the cownty of Mayoe; for which Riott I brought my bill in the Cowrt of the Castlechamber against him, and the reste of the Riottors; who appeering, and being advized by his Learned Councell rather to submitt than to answer, and goe about to defend soe vnjustifiable an act, Importuned me himself, and by his brother the Lo. Viscount of Mayoe and other his ffrends to staie my sute prosecuted in the name of my tennant leeftennant Richard Rutledge, to accept of his Submission, and my chardges of the sute, with his Submission being all wrytten with the Lorde of Mayoe's own hand signed by his said brother, and testefied by his Lordship, I did accept of, and he paid me v^{li} ster:, lxij^{s}. vj^{d}, wherof I had spent in the suite, and the remaine of xxxvij^{s}. vj^{d} I appointed Leeftennant Rutledg owt of my Rents to give amongste his servants that were wounded in defending my weares, when they were attempted to be broken down.

24. M^{r} Edwards departed from my daughter Kildares service, and embarqued at the Rings end to goe to the Hage with my daughter Goringe, by whome I wrott [to] George Goring, our new Collonell, and my daughter, wishing her to promise the Countess of Denbigh 2000^{li}, when the pattents for her young brothers were vnder seale.

25 ꝺ. The vickaridge of Kilmolashe als Bewlie in the Cowntie of Waterford, and diocesses of Lismoor, being by the death of M^{r} William Northron now voyde, & in my guifte, I did uppon the recomendacons of the parishoners present thervnto M^{r} William [R]oper, preacher [illegible] & now curate [Two lines bottom of page illegible.—G.]

27 ꝺ. This day, uppon the request and letters of the Lord Roche, I, as one of his Lordships ffeoffees of truste, did sign, seale & deliver unto William Groves of Cahirdowgan, gent., a deed of Mortgage of 700^{li}, of 5 ploughlands in the said Lord Roches Cowntrey, formerly mortgaged to Sir Gerrard Louther, Knight, for the lyke some, the said deed being longe before me, perfected by the said Lord Roche, M^{r} Morris Roche, his son & heir, and all other his ffeoffees, and livery & seizen made & en-dorced thervppon, the said deed bearinge date, the xviijth of A uguste 1628, A° 4° Jacobi Regis.

22. This day the Lord of Baltinglass repaid me the 440^{li} that he mortgaged the shops & new howses, under and adioyning to my own dwelling howse in Dublin, of which houses & shops he never yet had any Lease from me, but my promise.

31. I had a heering towching the bonds & bills of debt deposit[ed] in the Chancery, vppon a false supposicon that they were made for payment of M^{c} Latfewrs Cth tons of iron: this heering was in the gallery of the Castle, before the Lord Deputy, the Lord Chancellor, the masters of the wardes & Rowles with Sir Georg Ratcliff, Sir W^{m} Rives, & M^{r} Chadwick, being of Cowncell with Blacknoll: I had none, but had day given me for my Councell to be heard till the 3 of the next moneth, and on Candlemas Day further tyme was given me till Satterday [28 febr. 1633.] then following, which was againe moste favorably heard by the Lord Deputy, and all the reste of the associates already named, I having there of my Councell Sirieant Catlyn, M^{r} Soliciter, and M^{r} Donnellan, where notwithstanding all that my selfe, the master of the wardes could and did iustely propownd, and my Learned Councell urdge, yet it pleased the Lord Deputy in his high wis[dom to] order me to repay the 82^{li} that I had rece[aved from] M^{r} Burston of [Corck], and the bondes and [illegible] which were debts [for my] yron, it being ackno[wledged] to be due for [Two lines illegible.—G.]

ffebruary 1633.

4. This day William Barber delivered Sir Addam Loftus one C.^{li} ster:, which makes 3150^{li} ster: of the 7000^{li} ster:, which I am to pay him for the full purchaze of thinheritance of the Mannors of Trym & Moyare, in the County of Meath.

4. This daie the Lord Moor sent his man with 200[li] which William Barber receaved, being the halfe yeares rent of Ballymᶜskanlan, Etc., due on May Laste, this being the laste payment, I am to have owt of my daughter Sarae's Joincter.

6. William Barber having paid Edmond Tingham the laste week 40ˢ, and to his wife xxˢ, I this day paid him other xvij[li], which makes in all one Thowsand ffive hundreth & ffyftie pownds ster: englishe, in full satisfaction of all that was covenanted, promised, or agreed between us to be by me paid or performed for the bwylding of the Church and demolished Mannor of Maynooth, belonging to my son in Lawe, the Earle of Kildare, to whome, and his heires I have freely bestowed the chardge of these bwildings; & God bless him, & his for ever, with much honnor, and prosperetie therwith: And sithens I have sent the said Tingham other x[li] ster.

6. This day I delivered my letters to Dongarvan, my daughter Lettice Goringe, and Sir John Leek to Arthurs Champen, to be delivered unto them, who now embarcqued at the Ring's end.

7 ber. I this daye concluded, and entered into a Covenant with Luke Brady for the purchaze of the Castle and yronworckes of Skarruff, and ten quarters of Lands, parcell of Tomgreny, in the county of clare, ffor which I now paid him 50[li] ster:, and uppon the perfecting of such assurances and secureties, as I and my learned Councell shall approve of, and accept, then I am to pay him 1450[li] ster: more, in all 1500[li], or if I shall dislyke the [tytle], or the conveighances & securety, then [he is to deliver me] my 50[li] within 40 days [One line totally illegible at bottom of page.—G.].

10. I have agreed with John Strongman the yonger to make him a Lease to begin the 25 of March 1634, for xxxi yeares

(part of the Lands which I did purchaze of M^r^ Donnogh M^c^ Brien Arragh, of Castlelogh) and three ploughlands, and three quarters of another quarter Meer of Land; which three Meers of Lands ar parcell of the Lands of Castletown (and to be excepted out of M^r^ John Hunts Lease) ffor which Jack Strongman is to pay me xxxv^li^ ster: a year. But in regard he is to repair, Rooff, & cover with slatt, the said Castle, and to make a Tymber bridg, to goe into the castle from the mayn, I am to abate him v^li^ a year every year, for the firste 5 yeares, with vsuall provisoe, Condicons, and Covenants as in my other Leases.

10. I entred into thirde covenants with Thomas Ledsham, and by him I wrott my letters to M^r^ Walley to deliver him xxx^li^ ster:, as an imprest to be abated out of his contracte with me for slytting of my ends & peeces of barr yron into Nayle Rods, ffor which I am to paie him for slytting each ton xxx^s^, he abating me for the loss and waste of my iron in the worckinge therof after the rate of xij^s^ ster:, the Tonn.

10. I sent to Lismoor by M^r^ Lodsam xvj yards in one whole peece and a Remnant coute 4 yardes and a half, which coste but vij^s^ the yarde, of very choice stamell cloath to Lismoor, to make chaires and stooles for my dyninge chamber there.

15. Uppon the request and letters, and request of M^r^ Donnogh M^c^ Brien Arra I sent by M^r^ William Haly, of Lymerick, to be by him delivered to Sir Geffray Galway, at Lymerick, and to be by Sir geffray paid over to M^r^ Brien, when he shall have perfected unto my use the ploughland called Ballymostin adioyning to the Lands of the Pallace in Arrae, by such conveighances, as the other 13 plowlands are to be assured unto me, this 85^li^ making all [illegible.—G.] of me to amount unto 1480^li^ [One line at bottom illegible.—G.].

14. The Lord Primate, the Lord Digby, and my self rode to the Lord Archbishop of Dublins howse at Tallagh, to procure his letters, and certifficate to my Lord of Canterburies' grace, towching my wive's Tombe in S[t] Patrick's church; which his Lordship in a moste friendly manner performed, and in the way homeward, gray Barry, one of my 4 coach geldings, died at the Townes end. And my own foot cloath horse that Arthure Loftus gave me was killed the 19[th] of this moneth by my own groom.

18. 9. I sealed M^r^ John Hunts lease of castletown, and the 4 ploughlands in dowharry at 45^li^ ster: Rent, to begin at our Lady daie, 1635. The laste Michas rent due vnto me before his lease I freely forgive him; for this next Easter I took his acknowledgments, all wrytten with his owne hande vnder his bill for the xxxv^li^ that I lent him gratis in reddy money owt of my purse, soe as his lease for xxxj yeares begins the 25 of march 1635, and his firste rent vppon his leas, is not paiable till Michas, 1635.

9. This day the differences between Robert Gilbert the purcevant, my tennant, and M^r^ Hampton, the goldsmythe, tennant to my brother, Sir W^m^ ffenton; in the howse nexte the passadg owt of Copper Alley to the stables, was by vs both in their own presences, and Cap^n^ John Hunts, heard & composed. Hampton is to stopp vp his door that opens into my entry and to free all Indictements at his own chardges. Gilbert to pardon the battery and releas the peace to Hampton; And gilbert is to haue the way & passadge vnder part of Hamptons Tenement free, and private to himself, his Tennants & ffamely, and for their vse, and is at liberty to hang a gate with lock & key at that end of the passadge going owt of Copper alley. Hampton in our presence acknowledged the wrong & battery he had don to Gilbert and craved his forgivenes, Hampton to dischardg the Indictments, Gilbert to releas himself the peace; all to be don at Hamptons sute and chardges.

9. This daie, my servant W^m^ Barber, of my moneis, and by my order, paid M^r^ James newtervile, of Tobber, on[e] Thowsand pownds ster:, He having alsoe at former Severall tymes, receaved of me other eight hundreth pounds ster:, soe as now the said James Newtervile hath receaved, and is by me fully satisfied of the entier some of Eighteen hundreth pounds ster:, ffor the full and absolute purchaze of the ffee simple of the mannor, castle, mill, town, & lands of Tobber, and the warde of Tobber, in the counties of dublin and wickloe; of this laste thowsande pownds, M^r^ John Stanley of dublin, merchant, had then presently paid over vnto him in my howse, by James Newtervile 500^li^ ster:, wherof John Stanley then lefte with W^m^ Barber one C.^li^ therof, to dischardge a bond & debt of his to Henry warren, of Grange beg, esq^r^: God bless and prosper this purchaze of Tobber to my yongeste son Robert Boyle, for whome I paid really and honestly for that town & landes, hoping, it being so liberally and iustly paid for, it will the better & longer continew with my son Robert & theires males of his boddie, to whome I give it. Silck stockings, Roses & garters, of M^r^ Stanley which he sent me 20 Aprilis, 1635.

10. I this day cleered all accompts and demaunds between my self and david Begg of Dublin, merchant, who for those many yeares paste had the sale of such of my barr iron as was vented in this cittie; vppon perclosing of which full and generall accompts, he paid for me to W^m^ Barber fforty three pownds five pence ster. And he hath of myne onely ten Tonns of short barr iron, which he is to pay me after the price of xiij^li^ ster: le Tonn as he shall vend it. He having (as he saith) sold 3 Tons therof already at that rate, to be paid for at midsomer next, to some merchants of drogheda: Me. that in this accompt I allowed david Begg that I had formerly paid Henry croon to bwy in [illegible] for Maynooth, which croom is to repaie me.

10. Lent my stewards wyffe v^{li} ster:, to bear M^{r} greens, her husbands chardges into England; to be repaid me with other v^{li} ster: I did formerly supply him withall, when I can gett it.

10. My chapleyn, M^{r} wilkinsons, wife being in her husbands absence (at Lismoor) in wants heer, I did bestow vppon her five pounds in golde, and sent it vnto her to Kilmaynham, by my cozen, dean Nayler.

11. ☙ wheras at my arrivall at dublin owt of England in An^{o} 1613, I fownd M^{r} Teag M^{c} donnell M^{c} Carthie Reogh in execution for lxxv^{li} ster: at the sute of James Halye of corke, merchant, and for other iiij^{li}. x^{s} ster: at the sute of M^{r} William crow; And when all his kindred & ffrends that were in this cyttie, refuzed to free him, I lyke a kynde ffool, pittiing his distress and Imprisonement, paid 79^{li}. 10^{s} ster:, and therby redeemed him owt of prizon; whervppon for my repayment, he having no other securety, pawned vnto me a box wherin his ffathers deed to him of the castle town and 4 plowlands of Kilgobban, and 22 other wrytings were included, & sealed vp, which ever since, being 21 yeares, haue remayned so sealed vp in my custodie vntil this day that in the presence of Sir W^{m} ffenton, and others, I gaue M^{c} charty the boxe and wrytings therin, as I did receave it sealed vp, which seales he brake vp; and gave me his dischardge for his receipt of the wrytings. And after my xxi yeares forbearance of my 79^{li}. x^{s} ster: repaid me my own moneis, without any vse or other consideracon for my so long forbearance therof. 79^{li}. x^{s}.

12. ☙ I haue this day vppon thentreaty and comendacons of the lo. Bicshop of Londonderry, and the mediacon of my cozen

Nayler, dean of Lismoor, and with the consent of M^r^ Jerrom, to whome I intended the vickaridge of Stradbally, presented my young sons Tutor, and my domesticque chapleyn freely to the said vickaridge of stradbally, as also vnto the vickaridge of Agglishnegall, which I formerly presented M^r^ James ffrey, my son dongarvans tutor, vnto. And have now bestowed them both vppon M^r^ Thomas Wilkinson.

13. I haue this day made vnto M^r^ Henry warren of Grange-begg a lease for 41 yeares to begin at our Ladie daye 1635, of the Castle, Town lands, and mill of Tobber, and the warde of Tubber in the counties of dublin, and wickloe, ffor which he is within the first ten yeares to bestow 200^li^ ster: in the bwilding with stoan, lyme, sawed Tymber covered with slatt, and to pay me above all other chardges, Rents, and demaunds, the full and cleer yearly Rent of cxv^li^ ster: & half of all Royalties, ete.

[1]3. I freely lent Sir Hardress waller 50^li^ ster: in ready money on his bill, to be repaid at my will & pleasure, which with other 20^li^ more since lent him, is by my order paid to M^r^ W^m^ parkins in London for me.

14. This day patrick sherlock, esqr, assured me that Thomas Elwill of Tallagh, reported vnto him in the paliament house, that I had nothing but my greatness, without any other tytle, to shew for the livings Gwyn sued me at the Council table for, and that the L. deputy had ordered the possession of them againste me; and that there [were] many more sutes coming againste me; and that I vniustly kept many howses & lands in Tallagh from one norraron, who was the right Inheritor of them, and that I had noe right vnto them, in his own knowledge.

14. I gaue Sir James Erskine a faier black gelding of my own breed which I loste vnto him vppon a wager that he won of me, that the childe my daughter of Kildare then went with was a son, as god be thancked it proved.

17. My son dongarvan sent his footman Robin hether to take his passadge into yorckshire with lettres to the L. clifforde; who the 18 embarcqued at Rings end for Lirpool.

18. My brother Sir W^m^ ffenton & my selfe rod to Mynooth to meet the worckmen there & sett them newly on worck to fynishe that neglected bwilding, and I carried 20^li^ with me, and borrowed of my brother there, other iij^li^. xv^s^ ster:, which 23^li^. 15^s^ was by Tingham & Harry cremes disbursed among the worckmen, who now haue given over worck till after Easter; and at my retorn, I repaid my brother fenton his lxxv^s^.

❧ 18 ❧. This day the Lo. deputy at the table signed Arthure Gwyns order againste me for the possession of the Rectory of mertelstown, & the vickaridge therof, and of Raronan, & Ardfynnan, and wheras it was vppon the firste giving of that order, ordered that Gwyn should give sufficient securetie to me, to answer all the mean proffits if by law I should evict his tytle, the L. deputy before it was brought to the Table to be signed, did cawse it to be altered, and appointed Gwyns own bond (who is nothing worth) should be taken, & denyed to incert in the order, to admitt a lease, entry & eiectment, as is usuall, & yett restreyned me to try my tytle within a year.

19 ❧. The 13 of May laste I purchazed of Robert waddinge a leas he had from patrick peppard of about 19 yeres he had then to come in the improprate Rectories of Letrym, clondolane, Morronye, and Kilcromper, with the particles of Molan & phelans parcels of thabbey of Glascarrick, for which I paid him 250^li^ ster:, owt of which lease there was x^li^ ster: reserved to M^r^ Peppard with some 4 or 5 yeares which were to continew of his grand lease, after waddings leas should expire; which Rent & Revercon I bought of M^r^ Peppard for one hundreth pounds ster:, wherof I paid him 20^li^ at thensealing of his assurance, and [have] given him my bill for payment of other lxxx^li^ the laste day of next Easter tearm, which 80^li^ I then paid him; and he and I are clear.

20. Sir Peercie Smyth delivered to W^m^ Barber 400^li^ ster:, which he gave me his bill to make payment of at our Ladie day next, and is in part payment of 600^li^ ster: that his brother Burt did owe me for the firste 50 tons of barr yron I sowld him: Thother 200^li^ therof the L. Dillon & M^r^ Ja dillon his son & heir ar bound to paie M^r^ Arthure champen in truste for me, & to my vse. [The following margin note by Lord Cork's son occurs here—"No[ta]. Touching two hundred pounds assigned from M^r^ Burt to my father vppon the Lord Dillon & M^r^ James Dillon."—G.]

20. I wrott by my Ladie crosbies ffather, M^r^ Tyndall, to M^r^ W^m^ ffreeke owt of the 370^li^ he owes me for arrears, & this next Ladie dayes Rent, to paie therof 300^li^ ster: to my cozen John Nailer of graies In, to whome I owe the lyke some, & to bring me back my specialts, & to paie me the 70^li^ when he comes into Ireland, and other lettres by my servant green to my cozen nailer, with the coppie of myne to M^r^ freke.

20. M^r^ Thomas Tailor, now provost of Bandonbridge, was this daie, the second tyme with me, acquainting me that the corporacon were desirows (with my favor) to enlardge their charter; and shewing me his heads in wrytings of the desiers he had by thadvice of the Kings attorney to demaund. They sued for their liberties to extend two miles rownd about the Town, that they might be freed from the service of my cowrts: That they might haue the Licensing of all Alehowses and Interests within the Town, and their new liberties: The keeping of my keys of my Town gates, and many other exorbitant priviledges; all tending to my preiudice. He had 20^{li} of the Town for this his impert [illegible]. He promised me to give it over, & yet secretly solicited it.

20. I made domynick Lynche a lease for 41 yeares at x^{s} ster: rent to begin at Easter next, 1635, of St. Johns howse & garden in carrickm^{e} griffen belonging to the spittale of Anye, owt of which I yet never made any proffits.

20. This day my L. deputy comaunded thattendance of the Lordes, Judges, and Comissioners in the Court of Castle chamber, yt being firste rvmored throughowt the cyttie, that Sir vincents Gookins cawse should be handled there at this meeting; which opynion induced a great confluence of the better sorte of the people to thronge thither, my selfe amongst the rest of the Judges of that Court, (being by the purcevant this very morning without any premonicon or notice of the cause lykewise warrned to attend his lo^{p}). And when the Court was sett his Ma^{ts} Attorney generall taxed me with delaying the putting my answer to his insinuacon, (which in it selfe was moste vntrew). Then he moved further, that notwithstanding a former ordre of the Cort, I had not brought into the court thancient evidences and seale belonging to the colledge of yoghall, (which order was made the laste daie of the laste Tearme, since which day the court never satt,); whervppon in tymely obedience, I this day had the said ancient wrytings and seale in a boxe by themselves, and the deed made to Sir Laurence parsons of the said colledge, and the whole possessions thereof, in another Boxe, ready in court; and as I was ordered, delivered them vp in court vppon oath, there publicquely ministred vnto me, by the L. chancellor. Then M^{r} Attorney further moved that the owld lease of the colledge made to Sir Thomas norreis (never moved for in court before, nor menconed in any former order of court) might also be, by me produced, which I also promised this night to delieuer vp to thofficer, to be by him coppied, and thorrigenall to be brought back vnto me againe: [Margin note—"sent presently by Badnedge, & it being Coppied owt by Mr Stoughtons was retorned vnto me."—G.] Then Mr Attorney moved that dermott Dingle, one other of the defendants in regard of his age and disabillety to traveil, might for expediting the cawse haue a dedimus poteste graunted to some select gentlemen in the countrey to receav his answer & exāicon: many were named, but in thend the L. deputy appointed thofficer of the Court to goe thither in person, and ordered dermod should pay him 20li. 10s for his Jorney.

20. And soe without any other mocon (after this great Rvmor and expectacon of the proceeding against Sir vincent Gookin) it began, & ended in me. And soe the court rose, and I cam home in my own, and not in my Lo. deputies coach, into which I was invited, & Rod with his lop to the Court.

20. I made my cozen, John nayler, dean of Lismoor, a lease for xxxj yeares, to begin at our Lady day next, for xijli a year rent of the Town & Lands of Kilneroogn (?), which before yealded me viijli a year, & for which I was now offered 40 marks ster: per annum.

20. I wrot a lettre of pretence to Mr walley by my cozen Burte, entreating him & Adam wearing not to call vppon my cozen Burt for the 200li he owes me, as the laste payment for the 50 tons of yron, being the firste of my iron which I sowld him, ffor that Mr James dillon hath promised to pay it me in dublin the 15th of Aprill, which if he doe, then I shalbe satisfied therwith, otherwise my cozen Burt, who is still my debtor therfor, must paie yt me. This debt of 200li is secured by the

Lo. dillons and his said sons bonde to M^r^ Arthure Champen in truste to my vse.

24. This daie, by Condon, the messenger of Lismoor, I sent my laste Michas Rentall book to M^r^ walley, with my lettres to my son Dongarvan, M^r^ walley, and to Sir Charles Pyne, to be heer the 5^th^, for that the cawse between me & M^rs^ Blacknoll is to be heard by the L. deputy the 7 of Aprill, 1635.

24. This day the vpper howse of parliament satt first after the prorogation, and the howse was adiorned till Monday next nowe sevenight, being the sixt day of Aprill.

24. I wrott to M^r^ wiseman to forbear going forward with my ffree school and Almes howse at Bandonbridge, ffor that M^r^ Thomas Taylor, provoste of that town, had in the name and behalf of that corporacon peticoned the L. deputy (who disfavored me highly) to enlardg the bonds of their liberties 2 myles about the town, Etc, without my consent. And I lykewise wrott vnto him owt of my Rents to Supplie James nugent, of Aghmarten, with 200^li^ ster vppon good securety of land at 8 per centum.

25. I paid leeftennant purdown x^li^ ster: for 22 barrels of skotch oates for my stable, delivered me at the Key of dublin.

24 ℔. The complaint of John Norroon, of Glannebuy, for certen tenements in Tallagh, being by the L. deputie vppon Norroons petecon, referred to the M^r^ of the Rolles & Sir George Ratcliff (in which, notwithstanding I am the Kings ffarmor and pattentee, yet Sir W^m^ Rives was of councell againste me), vppon the heering wherof this day the M^r^ of the Rolles pressed all they could to haue a comission for to examen Norroons witnesses, which Sir George Ratcliff not yealding vnto, it was ordered that yt should be lefte to the comon law, by an indifferent Jurie, to be nomynated at the table, to be tryed at the Barr. [Margin note by Lord Cork's son, "an injustice don to my father."—G.]

24. M^r^ Thomas sherwyn, Threasurer of the Cathedrall of Lismoor, and vickar of Kinsalebeg and Lisgeynon, died this day at welles, in his waie homeward ; whervppon I freely presented my domesticque chapleyn, M^r^ Stephen Jerrom, to those two ꝏ vickaridges of Kinsale begg and Lisgeynon, as members of the churche and Rectorie of Dongarvan in my guifte. But he neglected his admission and Induction till the livinge fell into lapse, wherof the L. deputy took the vantage, and presented M^r^ Holte vnto them.

28 ꝏ. This day M^r^ wilson, my Attorney in the court of Comon pleas, brought me the ffynes of Tomgely and the 4 ploughlands delivered (?) which I purchazed for one thowsand pownds ster : of Thomas ffitz morrice, of clenlishe, as also the ffyne that Luke Brady and his ffeoffees haue acknowledged to me of the castle, lands, & Ironworcks at Skarruff in the County of clare, and ten ploughlands which I purchazed of him for ffyfteen hundreth pownds ster :, ffor the chardges of which I paid him ix^li^. ij^s^. vj^d^ ster. But my ffynes from young Sir charles Coott & his Lady, ffrom Sir Addam loftus & M^r^ Newtervile, ar not yet fyneshed.

ꝏ 28. Sent John Raggett, by his son, to releev him, being in wants and in prison, x^s^ ster :, and to my old servant gerrott dalton, 40^s^ ster.

28. I wrott to my cozen Nayler, of graies In, by my servant grene, to demand 300^li^ ster :, which I receaved of my Cozen Naylers, from M^r^ W^m^ ffrekes, who owes me 370^li^ for Rent, as also the coppie of my own lettres to M^r^ ffreke, to paie my cozen Nailer three hundreth pounds ster: therof, which my lettres being returned hether, Badnedg vndertook to send him.

28. I paid 9^{li}. 2^{s}. 6^{d} to M^{r} Wilson for the chardge of my two ffynes of Tomgely, in the County of Lymerick, & of Skarriff, & ten ploughlands which I purchazed of M^{r} Luke Brady in County Clare.

28. I paid M^{rs} Jane Edgworth v^{li} ster: for making me her Releas of dower in thabbey of Court in the County of Sligoe, the Revercon wherof (there being 4 yeres now to come of the former lease I had therin) of M^{r} ffrances Edgworth, her deceased husband.

30. Sent a dedimus potestam to dongarvan, for him to acknowledg a ffyne of Trym and Moyare to me and my ffeoffees of truste before thearle of Barrymore & M^{r} Attorney of Mounster, & to be returned, being sent him by Archdeacon goares ffootboy.

30. This daie the Lo. Cromwell arrived at dublin, and brought vs the certen newes of the death of Sir Richardo weston, earle of portland, L. Threasurer of Englande, and that the Lo. Archbicshop of canterburie, thearle of Manchester, the lo. Cottington, and the two secretaries of state, ar the Comissioners, till a new L. Treasurer be made.

31. I had notice that the Ladie willoghby, wiffe to Sir ffrances willoughby of Newmarcket, the daughter of Sir ffrances Slingsby, whose firste husband, M^r^ Morris Barckeley of Askeating was, in whose right she had the third part of that seiginory which was worth abowt 200^li^ a year, which I purchazed her estate for lyffe in; & to her, & her husband, Sir ffrances willoghby, I paid about two yeres since twelve hundreth pounds ster: in reddy money, for her estate for lyffe therin, which by her death I haue vtterly loste.

Aprill 1635.

1. This firste of Aprill, 1635, Arthure champen, of dublin, merchant, delivered me lettres from Cap^n^ Gerrard ffowkes, with his firste bill of exchandge chardging me within 20 daies after sight, to paie M^r^ champen six hundreth pownds ster:, which my son dongarvan took vp of him in London for his own private vse, as for so muche moneis which M^r^ charles walley of west chester had paid there to Cap^n^ ffooks; which bill of exchandge I accepted, and paid M^r^ champen the said 600^li^ on the [blank] day of this present moneth. [Lord Cork's son writes opposite, "No[ta]."—G.]

1. This day my son in law Sir Arthure loftus had a veary vnpleasing passadge with me in my gallery towching a slight vnkyndnes he had taken against his wiffe, and exprest himself heddy & vntractable therin, to my great discontent.

2. I paid to my son dongarvans ten pounds ster: for making me vp a sumpter cloath embroydered (besides the blue broad clothe which I bought, and was my own), so it stood me in xiij^li^ to wiseman.

2. I bought of leeftennant Purdan a grey stone horse for to make my coach horses againe sixe, which coste me 26 marcks ster.

7. This was the daie that the Lo. deputie assigned for the heering of the cawse between Richard Blacknols widdoe and executrix, and me, although I had receaved neither letter missive, supena, nor order owt of the chancery to answer her billes of reviver; and when I and my councell were reddy to goe to the heering, His lo^p by a purcevant sent me notice, he was not soe well disposed in his health, as to be therat.

8. This day Richard Mytton, the ffownder, in my presence, & charles pynes, compownded with John Shepheard for the sale of the howse he held in lease from me in Capoquyn & 34 acres of land in Affane, for which he gave him then a peec of gowld, of v^s. vj^d in part of x^li, owt of which x^li my arrear for the laste yeare being vij^li. x^s was to be paid M^r walley, & the overplus to Mytton, who for former arrears owes me about 20^li, which I hope according his promise he will pay me when god enhable him.

9. I haue receaved lettres from M^r John sherlock of gracedue that the Rectorie of Stradbally in the county of waterford, which he holdeth in lease by assignment of Robert Nangles, & (wherof I haue the Revercon) that his leas therin will not expire till the 26 of June, 1638, but I conceav it ends a yeer sooner.

10. This day, by my order, W^m Barber, by my order, paid M^r Arthure champen one C.^li ster :, in part of 600^li which my son dongarvan borrowed in London of cap^n Gerrard ffooks, and was by him by bill of exchandge chardged vppon me to be paid the said M^r champen the 20^th of this present moneth.

11. This day my howshowld steward, Henry Smythwick, being occationed abowt his own affairs to return into England, I paid him 40^li ster: for his two yeares services, and lycensed his departure. And my servant shelburye pretending the lyke occations after I had given him xj^li ster: for his half yeares attendance, departed also with him for England, but vppon a better consideracon staid in my Service.

11. M^r donnogh o Brien, son to Sir donnell o Brien, did this daye offer me a lease, wherof 3 yeares delivered ar yet to come, of the weares of Innishshonan, which he affirmed yelded him de claro 55^li a year, to satisfy a debt of clx^li or therabouts that donnogh dooth owe to my son dongarvan.

11. paid M^r stephen Jerrom for his laste halfe yeres lecture at Kildare Hall v^li ster.

11. I cleered all accompts to this day with M^r david Begg of dublin, merchant, & wee made generall Releases each to thother, and I sowld him the remaynder of abowt 12 yeres I had to com in the leas of M^r Arthure vscher in the cellar and Romes above it in careles Innes, which I purchazed of M^r Thomas Ball, as also the remayn of my barr iron that was then in stoar in that my cellar, consisting of Ten Tonnes of end peeces of barr iron; for bothe which he gaue me his bill to pay me cxxx^li ster: on the firste of November, 1635. And M^r Thomas newcomen hath enioyed the Roomes over the cellar or storehowse, being the best part of the things leased since about Xtmas, 1621, without paying me any Rent, I having all the time paid M^r Vscher & his widdoe viij^li per annum [illegible quarter line.—G.] of the churche, the cyttie, & the soldiers.

13. I this daie vppon the L. Bicshop of waterfords lettres, and acquittance vnder his hand and seale, sent me by W^m Smithe, his lop^s servant, paid him his laste Easter Rent for Lismoor, Kilbree, Ardmoor, and Bewly with Kilclogher & the fyshing, amounting vnto x^li. xiiij^s. vij^d ster:, owt of which Roger Carew ought to paie me back x^s ster:, which I paie for the 4^th fyshe which he enioyes, & he, or Redmond M^c cragh is answerable for.

14. This daie charles pyne by the Inventory of the remayn of the stock of my ironworcks, which was given up the 25 of marche, 1633, into the chardg and tenancie of M^r^ John walley and Addam wearing, did make it appear that my stock they then receaved was 858^li^. 4^s^. ij^d^ ster :, in which the sow iron being cxxvij tons xi^c^, alwaies Rated at iiij^li^. v^s^ the ton, was vallued but at iij^li^. v^s^ the Ton, so the stock muste be vallued xx^s^ more for every ton of sow iron they receaved, which amounts vnto cxxvij^li^ xj^s^ ster :, so the stock in all of myne which they had delivered over in fearm, at 650^li^ ster : Rent the 25 of Marche, 1633, amounts in true vallue vnto 985^li^. 14^s^ ster :, Besides one thowsand and ffive tons and a halfe of barr iron then remayning in my severall stoarhouses.

Threasurer, thearles of ormond, & ffyngall, The viscounts Gormanstown, & Nettervile, The Barrons of Hoath & Mowntnorreis : the Lords of Gormanstown & Mowntnorreis were not in the howse, but said to be sick : we that were in the howse, moved that the L. cheef Justice of the comon pleas and L. cheef Barron (whome the L. deputy presently after sent for) might intymate to his lo^p^, that the L. of Gormanstown & mowntnorres were sick, & not in the howse, & to know whether any 2 other Lords should come in their places ; the 2 Judges went, but neither brought, nor returned vs his lo^ps^ pleasure : At xj wee 5 went, when his lo^p^ spake what pleased himself, towching the Rating of the Lordes to the subsedy. But we not knowing before hand [what] we were sent for, thearle of ffingall moved to know whether it were his lo^ps^ pleasure to haue it comvnicated to the Lordes of the howse, which was denyed ; or for the Lordes to haue any meetings abowt it. The graces performed : falce, slanderous, vntrew, etc.

16. This night late the L. Rannelagh, walking with me in my garden, Badnedg came vnto me and towld me, that one M^r^ Stern, a preacher that belonged to my L. chancellor, was veary desirous presently to speak vnto me about busines that much concerned my selfe; whervppon the Lo. Rannelagh departed, and M^r^ Stern cam into my garden vnto me; and after some protestacon of his good wishes to me, and in consciens to mak trueth appeer in the sute that was to be heard between Blacknols widdoe, & me, he towld me that M^rs^ wright had reserved before her husbands death certen lettres & papers, and had delivered them privately to his wife, which he fownd himself in consciens bownd to deliver me, for discovery of the trueth; and thervppon gaue me nyne lettres and papers bownd together in a bundle, which I receaved, and having pervsed, I fownd to be of no great vse vnto me. He towld me that M^r^ chace had vndertaken to M^rs^ wright to foll[ow] the Sute for her against me.

17. John norroon, and his brother, Richard norroon, this day agreed with me to surceas their Sute for Glannebwy, Et^c^, and to return home, and at my next comying home to refeir all our differences to indifferent gent of the neighbors, of the moste ancient and knowing men born in those parts, to be mutually chosen between vs, to conclude both our demaunds. And I lent them xx^s^ ster: to carry them owt of town.

17. M^r^ Thomas watson, of dublin, alderman, repaide me the 50^li^ ster: (that owt of M^r^ Harry warrens ffynes for his pardon) I ffour yeres sence, I lent him gratis to employ to sett poor clothiers and people in dublin on worck; which 50^li^ I haue appointed on[e] Byrd of cloghnekeltes to haue for that vse.

16. My self, the Lo. Lycale [?] the L. Rannelagh, and the Lo. digby as a comittee from the vpper howse of parliament were sent (with 8 of the howse of Comōns) to thanck the L. deputy for bringing back Sir vincent Gookins owt of England, to give reparacon to the kingdom whome in generall he had traduced and highly scandalized, praying his lo^p to take his pvnishment into his own guidance; and when I had delivered the messadge, I presented his lo^p with 5 lettres & papers concerning his offenc, which I receaved from the L. primate, being delivered by a comittee of the Lower house to a Comyttee of our howse.

18. The parliament which began at dublin, the 14 of July, 1634, after Sondrey adiorornents and prorogations was ended and dissolved this daye, where after the conclusion therof M^r Nathaniell catlyn, speaker of the howse of comons, and one of his Ma^ts Serieants at Lawe, was by the Lo. viscount wentworth, Lo. deputy generall of Ireland, Knighted, in the chamber of presence:

20. wheras I had a purpose, and thervppon made it part of my will (which remaineth with my Lo. primate), that my godson & nephue Boyle Smith, after Sir Richard Smythe his ffathers death, should be my tennant of Ballynetra, and such other lands and tythes as my brother Smyth now holdeth by a leas from me, yet afterwards, at thearnest sute of my nephue Sir peercie Smyth, and to Compass a marriadge for him with Sir W^m vschers grandchilde, the said Sir peercies now wife, I altered my former resolucon, and haue leased Ballynetra and all my other lands and tythes now held by Sir Richard, to the vse of the said Sir peercie and his Lady, at the yearly Rent of 120^li ster: per annum for tearm of their two lives, the owlde Rent of xxxvj^li x^s during Sir Richards lyffe to be onely paid me, and after his deceas cxx^li a year; whervppon Sir peercie hath entred into securety of 500^li to pay me 250^li within one year after his ffathers decease, and in the mean tyme to pay me 30^li vppon demaund, and 15^li at May, 1636, and so half yeerly, 15^li half yeerly during his ffathers lyffe, for the maintenance of Boyle Smyth abroad in the warrs. To whose vse I took the said securety given [by] his brother for the payment of the said 250^{li}, and the xxx^{li} per annum till that 250^{li} is paid him, or me for him.

20. This day the L. deputy, the L. chancellor, Etc., having signed a lettre, Missive Comaunding the aperance of the Lo. wilmott in the Court of Castle chamber in Irelande, the clearck of that cowrt brought it me to be signed, which, after sondrie other hands were subscribed, I could not refuze, 9 others being therwith ffyled to prevent the generall pardon. His lo^{ps} aperance is to be in Trynity tearm. And I refuzed to Joyn in the signature therof till the clearck honestly acquainted me that he had express Comaund to require my hand to that lettre.

☙ 21. This daie I lent Sir Geffray Galwaie, Barronett, 40^{li} ster: gratis, in reddy money, on a noat of his own hand, to be repaid me the xith of May next: which his Servant, W^{m} creagh, repaid W^{m} Barber, 9 May, 1635, & had his bill redelivered.

☙ 22. I agreed with M^{r} Robb: ormesby, who had paid M^{r} Verling and Annable Spring, his wife, the Relict of Patrick Taffe, to which two, and their son, Robert Taffe, I had paste an estate for their 3 lives, of thabbey and two quarters of Landes, and the tyethes of them, belonging to the Saide Abbey of Cowrt, in the county of Sligoe, at vj^{li} ster: per annum; That in regard Richard Caddle, who was in my debt in lxiij^{li}, had past over to me a Rent of xiij^{li} per annum for 4 yeres to come, issueing and paiable owt of the said Abbey by the said Robert ormesbie; And also in regard the estate for 3 lives which I made to peeter Taffe, his wife, & son, was condiconall, and forfeicted for not payment of the Rent Reserved to the Crown, and my selfe; And that M^{r} Verling, who married Annable Spring, the widdo of Peeter Taffe, had receaved of Robert Ormesbie 40^{li}, and made a lease of the said Abbey and the 2 quarters of Lands for ten yeares if the said Annable should so long live, without reserving any Rent to themselves during those ten yeares, wherby my abbey was ruyned, vnbwylt, and going to naught, and verling and his wyffe fledd owt of the Countrey much indebted, and not to be heard of; I to prevent any further preiudice, took a iuste and legal forfeicture of the lease for 3 lives, and haue now made a new leas therof for xxxj yeares, to begin at May day next, 1635, to Robert ormesbie at 40^{li} ster: per annum, wherby I haue loste my xiiij^{li} a year therout assigned me [by] Caddle, and haue abated Robert ormesby his first yeares Rent in lieu of the 40^{li} he paid verling and his wife for the leas therof [that] they made him for ten yeares, and heerby encresed my own Rent 34^{li} ster: per annum. Nota: that the Kings Rent for the abbey Court was in arrear for two years, du ending at Michas, 1634, wherby their estate for 3 lives is forfeicted.

11. This daie vppon the peticon M^r^ Robert Hisson, who vnder M^r^ Anthonie doppinge had been bredd & trayned vp in the threasurer remembrancers office thexcheqr, and at thinstance of the said M^r^ dopping, who purposelie resigned the said office for the respits of Homage, to thend I might bestowe the same vppon the said Robert Hisson, vppon the L. cheef barons comendacons of the sufficiencie and honesty of the said Robert Hisson, I freelie bestowed the said place of one of the six attorneis, in thoffice of the Threasurers Remembrancer vppon him ; And this daie vppon my said donacon, I presented him to the Barrons, who comending my choice, He was in my presence (sedente curia) sworn, as M^r^ Green, & M^r^ W^m^ Sadler, on whome I lykewise formerly bestowed, severally, the lyke places in that office.

11. At the instance of Henry warren, esqr., the Treaswores remembrancer of thexcheq^r^, & clerk of the Respits of homage, I this daie bestowed, freely bestowed on M^r^ Xtofer Turner, the son of M^r^ James Turner, who preceded M^r^ warren in the threasur remembrancer office, one of thoffices of the sixe attorneis therin, whome this day I presented to the Barrons, (as I did M^r^ Hisson,) who approved of him, as an officer to be elected ; and [he] was this day sworn in my presence, sedente curia., His place fell voyde, and in my guifte by the death of Robert wytherell, who formerly enioyed the same.

12. This daie was appointed for heering Blacknols cawse : and put of by the L. deputy.

14. I was aucthorized by the Ladie Judith May, widdoe, the executrix of my noble deceased frend Sir Humfrey Maye, [to receive] 600^li^ of thearle of ormond, wherof I receaved first 150^li^ ster:, and made it over to her La^p by billes of exchandg; which was accordinglie paid her La^p in London. And this day the better to assure the remayn of her La^ps debt, & to gett it owt of thearles hands, in part of payment therof, I delivered to M^r W^m Haly of Lymerick, alderman, my acquittance, acknowledging the Receipt of other 300^li, parcel of that debt, as if thearle of ormond had paid it me for her La^p. But I receaved no money of his Lo^p but W^m Hailes bond to paie it me 15 Junij next, for her La^ps vse.

14. My cozen Thomas Burt, being indebted vnto me in the some of sixe hundreth pownds ster:, for 50 Tons of Barr iron which I sould him, and was to be paid my 600^li at Xtmas laste, He assigned Sir peercie Smyth to paie me 400^li, which he paid me in dublin, and he assigned James dillon, son and heir to the Lo. dillon of Kilkenney, to paie me thother 200^li ster.; which 200^li I assigned the receipt of, to M^r Arthure champen, in part payment of 600^li, that Cap^n Gerrarde ffooks lent my son dongarvan in London; which 600^li Cap^n ffooks chardged me with the repayment of to the said M^r champen, as so much by him receaved of M^r charles walley of westchester: But M^r James dillon not being provided to paie M^r champen those cc^li, according [to] my assignement, gaue M^r champen his Lorde ffathers bond, & his own, to pay him ccx^li at vj monethes end; which bond I took in from M^r champen to my own vse, and paid him ❧ of my own moneis this daie the said 200^li ster.; which makes 500^li ster:, that I haue paid him on Cap^n ffooks his bill of exchandge: so I rest him C.^li the remayn therof: and the 210^li due by my L. dillon, & his sons bond, the 12 of November next 1635, is iustly paiable to me. ☙ 17. This daie being whitsonday, in christchurch the dean therof administred the sacrament to the L. deputie, the dean kneeling down on his knees all the tyme he was speaking the words both at the delivery first of the sacramental bread, so lykwise of the wyne.

☙ 17. Lent M^r^ daniell Spicer v^li^ on his bill, without which he was not hable to sue owt his pattent of the prebend of Tullaghartan, and the vickaridg of [blank] in the diocess of Lismoor: and after [abrupt ending].

19. I paid M^r^ pepard, of glascarrick, the remayn of lxxx^li^ ster: for the purchase of the Rectories of Letrym, Etc., and had first the L. Mountnorreses lettres to free those Rectories from M^r^ pepards statute, which he had forfeicted to his lo^p^.

20. This daie M^r^ Arthure champens man, Thomas Howard, by my order Receaved of M^r^ Randall Aldersie by the delivery of M^r^ Might, employed by M^r^ Aldersey, the some of one C.^li^ ster:, which some of C.^li^, with 500^li^ at severall tymes lately paid him by my Servant W^m^ Barber, dooth fully pay M^r^ champen those sixe hundreth pownds that my son dongarvan did tak vp in London of cap^n^ gerrard ffookes, ffor whose repayment (I gaue him my own bill) vndertaking to satisfie those 600^li^ ster:, within 20 daies after Cap^n^ ffook should chardg it vppon me by his bill of exchandg, which he hath now don, to paie it to M^r^ Arthure champen in lieu of 600^li^ receaved by Cap^n^ ffooks of M^r^ charles walley of westchester; which being by me fully paid I haue the bill of exchandg with thacquittance delivered vp vnto me.

20. My answer in the Castle chamber, to thinformacon of Sir W^m^ Rives, his Ma^ts^ attorney generall, being entred the 4^th^ of ffebruarie laste, and my deed of the colledge of yoghall, and all thancient evidences, & seale, which were delivered me about 27 yeares [since] by the now warden, to be kept, being in open cowrt, by order therof, in the presence of the L. deputie, the 20 of Marche laste, & then given into the chardge of M^r^ W^m^ Stoughton, and soe it rested till this morning, that Sir George Ratcliff came to my howse, and appointed me to meet him, and Sir W^m^ Rives this daye at 2 in thafternoon, in the councell chamber, to be examyned before them by their Speciall Comission vpon personall interrogatries; which I did, and spent tyme therin, from two till after [15 of June] sixe; And the 15 of June, the second tyme exāied before them in Sir Georges chamber, and the 19 of June, in the Councell chamber we all exāied answers to the personall Interrogateries and I signed them.

20. M^r^ Meers hathe towld me heer, in my howse in dublin, that he was willing, his brother Redmond should redeem Ballyhindon from Henry Hendley, and mortgage it for 700^li^ ster: to me, but that the p[loughlands] which the Lo. Roche had conveighed to the ffreehowlder of Ballyhindon for getting in therof was part of his ffathers lands which ought to descend vppon him, was by his ffathers exchandge conveighed from him; yet to enhable his brother Redmond (with my moneis), to redeem it from Henley, and with thoverplus therof to furnish his brother for his travales in forreign parts, he gaue me his consent to haue it in mortgage. But for the 800^li^, that he heard his L[ord] ffather offered to mortgage thabbey of Bridgetown to me, he said he had a promise from him, not to entangle it without his consent.

20. The 3 of June next the L. deputy hath assigned for heering of the cause between M^rs^ Blacknoll & me, his lo^p^ hauing twise before given me the lyke somons vnder his hand, and driven me to the severall chardges of new feeing my Lawyers, and then putt it awf, as I fear he will now doe: adiorned again till ffrydaie the 5 of June in thafternoon at the castle.

22. This daie I wrott my lettres to the M^r^ of the ordenance, and in my performance, and obedient to thact of state, and proclamacon concerning gunpowder, I did certefie Sir John Burlacie that I had in my stoar amongst my other mvnicons for defence of my howses, abowt seaven barels of cornpowder, & praied him to make entry therof, and send me lycens to keep it by Boothe.

☙ 28. This day Sir John Burlacie, knight, M^r of thordenance, sent me a licens vnder his hand (grownded on a certifficate from my selfe, that I had seaven barrels of gunpowder in my hows at Lismoor for the guard therof, & my other necessarie vses) for the keeping therof, without incurring any contempt of thact of state, or proclamacon: he sent me his licens vnder his hand.

June 1635.

1. In the controversie between the Lo. chancellor and me towching creEwstace, I gaue my Councell xiij^li ster:, viz., to M^r Pluncket v^li, to M^r Pollixfen iij^li, To M^r Sambedge iij^li, and to M^r Cook xl^s, As alsoe this tearm to M^r Solicitor 40^s, to Sir Nathaniell Catlyn 40^s, to M^r darcie, to M^r Marten, 40^s, and to

M^r^ Alexander 40^s^, in all 23^li^, for ffees to my Councell this Tearm.

2. This daie the Sute in the Chancery of thexcheqr, between Sir Robert Loftus and my self for creEwstace is appointed to be hearde.

4. Boyle Smyth departed from dublin into England, and soe for Holland, to be entred in the art of warr vnder the prosperety of the prince of orrange; by him I wrott to my daughter Goring to procure him a gentlemans paie in her husbands Regiment so soon as he should arrive there; to my Taylor, M^r^ Parckins, to paie him xxx^li^ ster: that rested in his hands to bwy materials for the making vp of two bed-steddles, which 30^li^ was bestowed heer, and soe the money appointed to be repaid him there; I wrott to thearle of Bedforde to procure mownsier Rosamond, a ffrench gent that was my lo. Russels gouernor, and Tutor in his travailes, to be agreed withall, and sent vnto me, to come over hether to be enterteigned, and guyde my two yonger Sons, Lewis & Roger, in their travailes abroad. To my lo. Maior of London, to receave the 20^th^ of this moneth 1250^li^ of my cozen Burt, and the lyke some of 1250^li^ of him, to my vse the x^th^ of october next, and of Xtofer croker such part of the 2400^li^ he is to pay me the 16 of August next at Lismoor by his bond, as the said Croker would paie vnto him, and I paid Boyle Smyth x^li^ ster: for 2 lean geldings that, without great chardges & trowble he cowld not Shipp over with him; and I bestowed on him to defray his chardges in his Jorney five pownds; & So god bless and prosper him.

5. This daie being againe appointed for the L. deputy & Comittees to heer Blacknols widdoes complaints againste me, I fownd the L. deputy walking alone in his gallery, and in private gave his Lo^p many reasons that the L. chancellor was no indifferent Judge in that sute, with praier to exempt his L. from having any Judgment therin ; which his l[ordship] towld me, he would not doe. Some shorte while after the L. chancellor and Judges comyng in to wayte vppon my lo. deputie for heering my cause, M^r Sambedge, one of my councell, propownded the [facts]. That cawse was not readie for a heering, in regard bothe the plaintiffs, Blacknoll & wright, Since thexhibint of the complaint were dead, and the Sutes for a trespass, a personall wrong, supposed wronges abated by their deathes ; and thatt their exec[^rs] had preferred no bills of Reviver in chancery. To which it was answered that Bills of Reviver were ffyled, and it was confessed that no lettres missive, or contempt was served or comitted by me. Thervppon the L. chancellor made a long impertinent speach that all those things alledged & confessed, yet he was of opynion my L. deputie might proceed to the heering. I replied I was not of that opyinion. His lo^p replied, I care not for your opynion ; Nor I for yours, quoth I ; and then his Lo^p said he cared not a Rushe for me, & soe we disputed, till the L. deputie towld vs wee were bothe great officers of his Ma^te, and praied vs to be quiet, But we multeplying our vnkynde conceipts one vppon the other, then the Lo. deputie required and comaunded vs both to be silent, and thervppon addressed his speach to the two Judges for their opyinons : who both with Sir George Ratcliff delivered all their opyinons againste the L. chancellor ; wherin the L. deputie also concurring the farthre heering of the Sute was adiorned to the 3^d daie of November next. My L. deputy towld me Blacknal had defrauded him of 400^li, and the M^r of the Rolles & Sir G^o Ratcliff of as muche more.

8. The Ladie parsons is to give me a pair of silck stockings

Roses and garters, if thearle of westmeath be not returned to London by this day from his forreign travailes; if he be, then I am to give her the lyke.

℔ 6. The L. clifford and Sir Thomas wharton cam this evening by the waie of Skotland to dublin, and were lodged in my howse.

9. I gave M^r^ James watson, of dublin, my lettres to M^r^ walley to paie one M^r^ Lissett of London, merchant, for the said M^r^ watson 500^li^ pounds ster:, And haue taken his own & M^r^ Abraham Richesses, of St patrick street, merchant, their bond of one thowsand pownds ster: to paie me 550^li^ ster: this day twelvemonth.

10. Given my nephew Georg Boyle v^li^ ster: at his departure from Dublin this daie in company with Sir peercie Smyth & his Ladie, my cozen W^m^ vschers wife, Sir W^m^ parsons daughter, towards Ballynetra; where I beseech god to bless them.

10. This day M^r^ walley vppon my lettres paid M^r^ Tho ffitz morris ffitz gerald, of clonlishe, 500^li^ ster: in full payment of one thowsand pownds for the purchacies of Tomgeely, and although I haue paid all yet lxxx^li^ therof is in M^r^ walley's hands to be paid.

11 ℔. This daie Cap^n^ charles price entreated me at his departure owt of Dublin to his garrizon to receav 400^li^ ster: of him on this condicion, viz., that if he lived till this daie twelvemonth, then I should paie him for it 440^li^ ster:, if he died before that day, then I should repaie his Exec[tor] onely his own 400^li^; vppon which condicon I accepted of his 400^li^, and gaue him my bill accordingly, which I the rather took, to supplie the occations of my lo. of Baltinglas.

13. W^m^ Hale, for the debt of 300^li^ of thearle of Ormonds, due to the Lady Maye (whose husband Sir Humfrey was suerty for the late Earle of desmond for 600li ster :, to alderman parckhurste) did enter into bond to me as being attorney for the said Lady May, to paie me 300li in dischardge of soe muche of thearle of ormonds debt, which 300li I assigned Wm Halye to deliver over to Mr James watson of dublin, alderman, who when he had receaved those moneis, delivered me three bills of exchandge on his brother, Mr John watson, dwelling in Tower street, over against Myncing Lane, chardging him to paie the said Ladie Judithe May the said 300li within 28 daies after sight, which money, with 150li I made over of the said 600li to her laP, makes 450li therof, and I delivered Wm Haly his bond, to Mr Gale one of the bills of exchandg to be sent over to his ladie, the second I keep with my self; the first I sent her laP inclosed in my own lettres by Mr david Begg, and for the 150li in remayn of the said 600li, thearle of ormond hathe given securetie to Mr Randall Aldersey to thvse of the said alderman parckhurste, now L. maior of London.

16. The Lo. clyfforde, Sir Thomas wharton, my self, dongarvan, & his Ladie, with others rodd to Mynooth with thearle of Kildare, dyned there, and came home that night, having been the day before with Sir georg Ratcliff, & Sir Wm Rives in Sir georges chamber the 2 tyme exaied on personal [Sentence unfinished.—G.].

16. Wm Barber, by my order paid mr pawle davies the clearck of the councell, vppon my Lo. deputies lettres to me directed, and delivered me by Matthew Bentley the purcevant, the some of sixe hundreth pownds ster :, ffor my firste payment of the sixe subsedies granted to his Maty in parliament wherein my lo. deputy, Etc., vallued me in lands at 3000li ster : per annum, soe as my part of the subsedie at that Rate amounts vnto 3600li ster :, which is as muche as all the Lords of the Councell in england in the laste parliament were assessed at; ffor which 600li, I haue Mr pawle davies his acquittance.

Nota. Capn Jermyn assures me that Ellis fflemyng, mother vnto phillip peers Barry, had 2 brothers, thone called david, thother Morris fflemyng, who dwelt at Ballymodane.

15. This 15 Goodwin delivered the Lo. chancellor 3 writts of errom to be sealed towching the Revesing the ffyne of Cre-Ewstace, which his Lop refuzed; And that phillip peerc (for that name he was ever called and known by, till of late he hathe added to his name Barrie) had 2 elder brothers by his mother Ellis fflemyng, who live and haue children at Kardiff, in which Protest that this phillip peerc can haue no pretence.

18. Lent Capn John Jermyn vli ster: repaiable by his bill at Hollantyde next.

18. This daie I enterd as suertie for the Lo. of Rannelagh into a bond of 2000li for the payment of 1000li ster: to the Lo. chichester, in Sir Robert dixons howse in dublin, on the 20th day of ffebruary next, which is the second and laste payment his lop is to haue for the marriadge porcon his lop is to haue with Mrs Mary Jones, who is to be married to Mr John chichester; which young cowple, I beseech god to bless.

18. This day, after my answer had been entred ever since the 4 of ffebruary last, to Sir Wm Ryves, his Mats attorney, his enformacon againste me in the court of castlechamber, and my examanacons to personall Interrogatories not made perfect, nor by me subscribed, and no Replication made to my answer; yet Mr attorney moved my lo. deputy that I might reioyn imediately after the Replicacon should come, in, and for that he would examen no witnesses on his Mats part; and that soe the cawse might be ready for a heering next Tearm, which my lo. deputy conceaved to be reasonable, and that it shoulde be so ordered, though he should come another daye into that cowrt of purpose to haue yt so ordered, the Tearm being now ended.

18. This day Sir James Carroll, Knight, Maior of the cyttie of dublin, was called into the court of castlechamber, and vppon his confession that he paid but viij^{li} the Ton seacoles, & prized them at 14 in somer, & 16 in wynter, & exchandged som ten Tons for wyne; & for not observing the proclamacon, He was censured, to be presently deprived of his office, never to bear office more in the citty, ffyned one 1000^{li} ster: & comitted during the Lo. deputies pleasure.

19. This evening about 5 of the clock, as I was ready to take my coach with the L. prymate, M^{r} Anthonie Stoughton, clearck of the castle chamber, cam vnto me, and towld me that Sir George Ratcliff and Sir W^{m} Rives required my presence in the councell chamber; whether I presently went, and there we exãied the faier wrytten book consisting of 5 sheetes of Lardge paper close wrytten, which I did presently subscribe to every sheet of [20]. And the 20 I had a coppie of M^{r} Attorneis replicacon con[sist]e[ing of] but one short paper.

20. M^{r} daniell M^{c} nemarra, of down, in the county of clare, presented me, by the meanes of John Bourck, with a caste of great sheete winged Hawks, thone I bestowed, one vppon the L. clifford, Thother I reserve for my own vse, and dongarvan hath vndertaken the keeping therof to fflye for our sportes, and not to dispose of her.

20. This day wee satt in the court of castle chamber till 12 of the clock, and noe worde moved by his Ma^{ts} Attorney vppon his Informacon againste me, as I, and my learned councell, who were reddy prepared, did expect, the rather for that yesternight I had fynished, & signed, my exa[men]acons to the personall Interrogateries: But about 3 of the clock this afternoon, Mathew

Bentley brought me a lettre misive from the Lo. deputy, L. chancellor, the L. Mountnorres, & the L. cheef Barron requiring me foorthwith to reioyn and Joyn in comission, The tearm being ended, no Relavor declared, and my deeds (which should be shewed to my witnesses) by order of court by me delivered into the hands of the clearck of the castlechamber.

20. paid M^r^ Beaghan for the poste ffynes in the counties of dublin and wicklo (which I purchazed of M^r^ James Newtervile) for the mannor of Tobber, 40^s^.

20. Bothe the Sir charles cootes being bound in Recognizances of 500^li^ to paie me 250^li^ ster: the 24^th^ of June, 1635, I assigned the said 250^li^ and gaue my acquittance thervppon, appointing it to be paid to Sir Arthure Loftus, to whome I haue freely lent it till the tenth daie of Marche, 1638, to helpe him to bwye a fflock of English sheep, and that x^th^ of March, 1638, He, and his vncle M^r^ Nichas Loftus ar bownd to repaie it me in 500^li^, ffor part of my daughter Mary her marriadg porcon.

21. My daughter the ladie lettice Goringe arrived owt of Englande (being newlie come thither from the Hague in Holland) landed at the Rings end abowt ten of the clock in thevening, and brought me lettres from the gracious queen of Bohemia, and from her husband.

23. This day the L. chancellor, the L. cheef Justice, the M^r^ of the wardes, the L. cheeff barron and myself sitting in the court of castlechamber, M^r^ Marten being of my councell moved that there was in thafternoon of laste satterday, being the 20^th^, day of the present June, after the court rose, viz., about 3 of the clock in thafternoon of that day, a lettre missive delivered vnto me from the L. deputy, Etc., requiring me foorthwith to reioyn to M^r^ Attorneis Replicaties & Joyn in comission. That in reguard my answer was put in 20 weeks before the Replicacon was made, that I might (before I reioyned) haue a Relator declared that might pay me costes, and damadges if I were vniustlie accused: That for the former delay vsed on the kings part, I might haue tyme till the firste of the next tearm, to reioyn and Joyn in comission both to examen witnesses in england and Ireland, the rather for that M^r^ Marten & M^r^ darcie of my councell were presently to depart dublin into connaght to attend the L. deputy in his progress, and could not on the soddyn haue meet tyme to draw vp my Interogateries, which they could not do, except I might haue coppies of my own, and the rest of the defendants answers to our personall Interrogatries which was part of thanswers, and my deeds delivered in court, by order therof, to shew my witnesses whose hands were to the profeccon therof; none of which motions (seconded by M^r^ pollixfen) were graunted. But the L. chancellor said, it was an extraordenary cause, concerning a great person, and fytt to be moved to the L. deputy.

And this morning I moved the L. chancellor in the with drawing chamber, before the court satt, none present but 3 of his servants and 2 of myne, Badnedg & W^m^ Barber, to seale the wryts of error for creewstace; which he denyed, till next Tearm, that he had advized with the Judges who were iust gon to their cercuits.

Bp of Kerry was also exāied in Dublin.

15. I this daie enterteigned into my service vppon the comendacons of the Ladie offaly, the L. digby, and my servant Tho. Badnedg, at xli ster: wages per annum, John Edowe: As also Thomas Langdale at the owld wages that he had when he served my 2 yonger sons.

ꝺo 16. Lent yonge Mr Macknemarro, at his & John Bowrkes instance, vli ster: gratis on his bill for repayment.

18 ꝺo. I paid Mr Thomas Hogan, of yoghallarra, in the county of the crosse of Tiperary, for half a quarter & the 5th part of one other half quarter of the plowland of Brobliglass (?) vli; and haue given order to my servant John Bowrck other xvijli. iiijs ster: for the absolute purchaze of those lands (now in the possession of my tennant Thomas page), when Tho. Hogan, & cnogher Mc Breen, Mc Knocher, of carney in the county of Tiperary, ffreeholder of those lands, shall perfect their deed in ffee simple to me & my heires for Ever.

18 ꝺo. vppon John Leas surrender of the lease I made dean John prendergaste, of the parsonadg and vickaridge of Ardfynnan at 9li per annum, for 31 yeares, wherof abowt 4 yeares ar now vnspent; and Arthure Gwyn, clearck, having recovered the vickaridge from him moste contrarie to lawe, in those respects I made John Lease a new lease of the parsonadg onely for 44 yeares, from our Lady day, 1636, at xli per annum, and all proxies & chardges ordenary & extraordenary, and reserving also the presentacon of the vickaridg to me and my heires, with 10li ster: Rent per annum de claro.

19. John Butler offers me but lxli per annum for the Rectories of Kironan [and] Kilgraunt.

20. This morning in the gallery of the castle, when the Lorde Deputy and councell were ready to goe to christchurch, his Lop singled out the L. Rannelagh to the further end of the gallery; with whome he held a sharpe and Lardge discowrse in dislyke of the draught of the conveighance for securing 6000li Lands on my son Dongarvan, of which thevening before, the Mr of the Rolles, & Sir Georg Ratcliff held a lardg debate with me, and I had taken tyme till the 22 of this moneth to Consider of the alteracons and addicons which they then had propownded vnto me; but before that tyme, or that I had delivered my resolucon, his lop had this rough passadg with the Lo. Rannelagh. And the lyke that night after supper in the castle, with my Son dongarvan. All in dislyke, that I did not at the first mocon condescend to sondrie extravagant demaunds not menconed within our articles, I having formerly of my own accorde, without any mocon from them, chardged my lands with porcons for dongarvans daughters, & cheef Rents owt of my 4 yonger sons estates to my heir.

22 do. This day the Lo. of Rannelagh, the L. cheef Justice of the Comon place [= pleas], Sir Georg Ratcliff and my self mett at my howse, & held a lardge discourse how to agree vppon the conveighance of my whole estate in Ireland to my ffive sons, and how to give content to the displeased Lo. deputy and his great favoryte Sir Georg Ratcliff; whome to content, I was constreyned (over and above what I had articled with them for) to yeald to chardg my lands assured to Dongarvan, if he should dy without a son, with 10000^{li} ster: for a marriadg porcon for his eldest daughter, and 5000^{li} for every yonger daughter; Lewis to paie my heir 40 marks cheef Rent, Roger & ffrances 20 a peec cheef Rent.

23. I sent by W^{m} ffitz olliver Terry to Sir Randall cleyton, to present, as a token from me to his Lady, a dozen of faier silver Trencher plates, with his own, & her armes engraven on every of them, they weighing 123 ownces; which at v^{s}. 7^{d} ster: the ownce amounted vnto 34^{li}. 10^{s}. 6^{d}; and for graving the 12 coates of Armes xxiiij^{s}, in all 35^{li}. 14^{s}. 6^{d}.

24. I wrott to Sir W^{m} Sarsfeild to take sufficient securety according to the statute & proclamacon of W^{m} Terry ffitz olliverus to his Ma^{ts} vse, for collecting & paying into thexcheqr the moneis for licensing the Alehows keepers in the county Corke; and thervppon I being Custos Rotulorij, assigned that employment on W^{m} Terry.

24. yesterday the controversie between M^{r} Lynche & [blank] being at heering at the councell table, S[erieant] cattulyne & M^{r} pluncket moved that the possession being to be taken from Lynche (who was in his mynorety,) Then he might when hee came to adge, haue incerted in thordre of the Table to try his Tytle for the parsonadg of Rathaske, when he should come to full adge; which the Lo. Deputy publicquely denyed, alledging that it was the case of the Lo. Threasurer heer present; ffor M^{r} Quyn having by order of this table recovered from his Lo^{p} a parsonadge [In margin, "Mortelstown," and Lord Cork's son writes below "Strange."—G.] & some vickaridges, His lo^{p} entending to try his tytle (after the possession at this Table was ordered against him) sued forth his wryts against Guyn out·of excheqr, wherof Quyn complayninge vnto me, I prohibited his lo^{p}, requiring him, in reguard his Ma^{ty} had by speciall lettres comaunded that all tytles which concerned the lyvings of the church should onely be heard and determyned at this Table, that his Lo^p should not in any other court be proceeded in: And therfore as I haue Inhibited his Lo^p: soe do I him. My Lo. Rannela present.

25 ❧. This daie I wrott vnto M^r walley to paie vnto W^m Somers, secretary to the Lo. Rannelaghes 1200^li ster:; wherof 200^li is for my private vse, thother Thowsand pounds is to repay Serieant cattulyne, the 16 of the next moneth; which the L. Rannelagh borrowed of him to pay the lo. chichester, and for which as his suerty I stand bownd with him: ffor this 1000^li, I haue the L. Rannelaghes bill to repay it me at my will and pleasure, 500^li ster: thereof which I lend him gratis. Thother 500^li I was in May next by my bill to pay M^r Edward dowdall for the debt of Sir Hardress waller, which the Lo. Rannallaghes hath dischardged for me.

27 ❧. I cleered with M^r Kinge of the Colledg, an owlde demaund for 24 yeares proxes, at vj^s. viij^d ster: per annum, which his father, the L. B[icshop] of Elyphyn, made for my Impropriate Rectory of Killuckell, in the County of Roscoman, and gave him my direction to my now tennant therof, M^r Randall Aldersie, to paie him the proxes heerafter yearly, as it should grow due; as also the vj^li for & in dischardge of all arrears of proxes for and vntill Michas laste, with promise to give M^r Aldersie abatement therof owt of his rent for vj^li.

27. I sould to ffranck ffookes and M^r Colson, merchant, of Tallaghe, 50 tons of Barr yron, at xij^li. x^s ster: per ton, delivered at my skales; and this day I receaved lettres from them bothe, that accordinge [to] our agreement they had paid the money to M^r George Hellyar, of Bristoll: and George Hellyars lettres that he had receaved of them 625^li ster:, which he had in his keeping to my vse, to be disposed of as I should direct, with request that he might pay him selfe 22li ster: therout, which he saieth, he lent my son Lewis (without any order from me), when Lewis was at Bristoll; and I, 15 Aprilis, 1636, directed him to repay himself the 22li he lent Lewis, and chardged him to deliver the remayn of 603li to my Lo. of Baltinglas. 625li.

29. I sent my daie book, and my two half yeares Rentall bookes for Easter, and Michas 1635, by clement Andrews to Mr walley, with my lettres to him, and charles pyne.

29 ꝺo. I sowld vnto Mr James Nugent, of Dublin, merchant, 70 tons of barr yron, to be delivered by weight owt of the scales at my fordge door, I bearing neither chardge or other adventure, for which he is to paie me xiijli ster: the ton, amounting in all [to] 910li ster:, at my howse in Dublin, on Michas day next; ffor securing of which payment, the said James, together with Xtofer Nugent, of Robinstown, esqr, and James Barnewall, of dunbre, Esqr, stand bownd vnto me by Recognizance in 2000li ster:, acknowledged before the L. cheef Justice of his Mtie cowrt of comon pleas.

29 ꝺo. James Kneied hath acknowledged a Judgment in the cort of the comon pleas of thexcheqr for the 20li I lent him on his & his suerties bond.

Marche 1635.

5. I was this daie paide one hundreth pownds ster: by Dermott Mc carthie of canturke [kanturk], esqr, in redempcon of the mortgage of Glanbannow, made by his wife the ladie seely Brown, Thomas ffitz gerrald of Rostellan, and Richard waters to donnell oge o cahill, who assigned it vnto me, there being three yeares after redempcon; for which the firste year I was to paie a grayn of wheat, and the 2 laste yeares vjli ster:

per annum : ffor which 3 yeares I haue compounded with M^c^ ꝺo donnogh, and taken his bill for 20^li^ to be paid on Michas day next.

6 ꝺo. Me : that John mumford this daie assured me that the Rent of Rathartgett & the tythes therof ar sett by it self for 26^li^ ster : per annum, and that cannycowrt & dromkit, with the tyethes, ar sett to samuell Easte for 50^li^ a year, owt of which Rent, defalcacon is to be made to the L. chancellor for the tyethes as parcell of the Rectory of Gilton.

ꝺo 6 ꝺo. W^m^ Barber receaved this day as moneis sent and tendred vnto me by the L. chancellor and Sir Robert Loftus in performance of a decree of the chancery of thexcheqr for redemption of the mortgages of Creagh-Ewstace, the some of three thowsand one hundreth nyntie ffour pownds one shilling & nyne pence ster :, which, with one other C.^li^ ster : remayning in M^r^ Robert Kennedies hands, which also is to be paid vnto me, makes vp the full some of 3,294^li^. 1^s^. 9^d^ ster :, beinge the whole some decreed vnto me.

8. I this daie, at the instance of Henry Staines, lent gratis vppon securety of plate, wherof there is a bill of sale made in truste to W^m^ Barber to my vse by M^r^ chichester, one C.^li^ ster :, to be repaid at no tyme ; ffor after I had given order to deliver him the money he was otherwise supplyed.

ꝺo 8. I this day also lent gratis to Andrew L. Barron, of castlesteward, 50^li^ ster : in ready money, vppon his own, & Henry Stewart of Ororrogan [Errigal?], in the cownty of Tirone, esqr, their bond, to repaie it me at all S^ts^ next.

14 ꝺo. The Almightie god be ever blessed and praized, for that my daughter of dongarvan was about eight of the clock in thevening of this ffowrteenth day of Marche 1635, the sign then in scorpius, safely delivered in my howse in Dublin of her firste childe, being a ffaier daughter; whome I beseech god to bless, with his choicest blessings, and that her parents and ffrends may reap happiness and muche comfort in her: Shee was Xtñed the vij^th^ day of the moneth of Aprill, 1636, and named ffrances, the L. deputie wentworth being god father, my daughter the cowntess of Kildare and the la: Kate Jones godmothers.

17. Serieant Ewstace paid me 24^li^ ster: for vj yeares arrears of Rochestown in creagh Ewstace.

17. This daie Nurse clement being this daie returned home from Dublin, I paid her xlv^s^ ster:, that she saieth my son Roger borrowed of her, before he began his fforreign travels.

17. I gaue my servant John Travers v^li^ ster:, and licensed Tibbott M^c^ Jonyn to goe abowt his own lands into connaght, with my lettres to Sir Henry Bingham in his favor, & v^s^ in his purse.

17. This day Serieant Ewstace, by his servant, sent me an acquittance all wrytten with his own hande, and 24^li^ ster: for 6 yeares arrear of Rochestown in creEwstace at iiij^li^ per annum, viz., begining for and at Michas, 1630, and ending for and at Michas, 1635: with his money I receaved, and retorned him thacquittance signed.

17. christian Borr sent to my howse a hogshead of white wyne, for that I gaue him exchandge at Lismoor of 700^li^, for his occations in Mounster; which vppon notice of my payment for him there 300^li^ to M^r^ Hazard, and 400^li^ to M^r^ whetcombe, He repaid me at Dublin.

18 ꝺo. At the instance of owld M^r^ clearck, the civillianex, vppon his assurance that Arthure Gwyn, formerly presented vppon my lapse by his Ma^ty^ to the vickaridges of Ardfynnan, Rathronan, and vnto the parsonadge & vickaridge of Mortelstown, in the county of Tiperarie and diocesses of Lismoor, and vppon his assurance that it was safe & lawfull for me being patron to present, ffor that Arthure Gwyn had since his admittance to those livings, receaved, and been admitted and Indented to the Treasureship of Lismoor, I vppon these his assurances, presented thervnto all the vickaridges [to] John Healehy, clerk, M^{r} of Artes, the 12 of this moneth. But vnto the parsonadg of Mortelstown, for that I know it to be Impropriated, I would not present least I should conclude my own right.

18. John Stiles that hath but one hande, this day made known vnto me that abowt Xtmas laste he was present in cashell when a silver sallet dishe of myne, stollen from Lismoor, was by one W^{m} Bell, a glover in cashell, sowld to Richard Conwaie of the same, merchant, and that Ned Shepheard, the Smythe of yoghals son, sent the dishe from capoquin to Bels wife. M^{r} Haly, agent for the Town of Cashell and brother to doctor Haly, hath promised me to examen this matter, and to give me a speedie accompt heer of.

❧ 19 ❧. M^{r} Nichas Loftus, by the direction of his brother Sir Addam Loftus, vicethreasurer, this day brought to my howse in Dublin (which by the condicon of his deed should haue been paid me at Lismoore) the some of ffive Thowsande and one hundreth pownds ster:, in redemption of the mortgage I had of the Mannor of Trym and Moiare in the County of meath; vppon receipt wherof, I reconveighed vnto him all the mortgage and estate I had in those mannors, as well which was made over to me, and my son Robert, as by the pattent I paste in my own name in England of the Mannor of Trym onely. And haue redelivered him all the conveighances and other wrytings which I had concerning those two Mannors, and covenanted that I and my sonnes shall at anytyme or tymes within 14 yeres make him further reassurances, at his chardges. And although I haue been owt of my purse moste of those moneis neer ten yeares (in all which tyme I haue receaved but 636li. 10s, owt of which I haue paid the Kings Exchequer Rent, since I first was paid the rents of those mannors, being 426li per annum, being in all, that I haue receaved 636li. 10s), yet was this payment made me but sixe daies before our Ladie day, 1636, to seclude me from this next Ladie daies half yeares Rent of cxiijli ster: now soe neer at hande due vnto me; I having so longe forborn my 5,100li and been at above 20li chardges in making my assurances, and sewing owt my ffyne, & paied the Kings Rent which is 36li. 10s. 8d per annum, and at 40li chardges for sewing the pattent in England foorth in my own name for the better securing the Mannor of Trym; And, therfore, I hope God will send me, more reall dealing, & better purchazes heerafter for my son Robert Boyle to whome this was Intended. I delivered in my studie in Dublin in a great black boxe all the deeds and ffyne of Trym and Moyare to Sir Addam Loftus his own hands the xxviijth of Marche, 1636.

19. Sir Robert Loftus conveighed him self owt of the county of wexford into England, without the knowledge of his ffather the L. chancellor (as it is said).

19. Sir James Carroll having receaved of me in June, 1632, for his Estate in creewstace 962li ster:, did leav C.li therof in Mr Robert Kenedie his hands, to repay the lo. Mowntnorres the C.li which his lop lent Sir James on his bond, to be repaid him within 3 monethes, at the tyme he and his Lady acknowledged the ffyne to Sir Ro. Loftus for creewstace; which C.li being decreed vnto me, Mr Kenedy not having the money ready to repaie me, at his entreaty I took his bill to pay it me the laste of July next, and gaue him back his first bill, with my acquittance subscribed.

21 ❧. I haue taken in John shepheardes lease I made him the laste year, of the parsonadge of Kilmolashe for xj yeares at the rent of 48^{li} ster:, and haue now devised vnto him bothe in one lease; Kilmolash, which consisteth of two thirde [torn] of all tythes, Etc, and the parsonadg of Affane, which devi[de]th a moiety with the vickar, so as the parson hath but one halfe of all the glebe and tyethes in generall, for 32^{li} per annum, so as his entier rent is 80^{li} ster: for boath. Nota: that till I leased Kilmolash to John Shepheard it yealded me but 17^{li}; and for Affane, ensign croker paid me hetherto but 18^{li}, soe I encreased my Rent in bothe 45^{li} per annum.

❧ 21 ❧. This daie I cleered all accomptes and demaunds from the begining, till this daie, between the L. of Baltinglas and my selfe, and haue paste generall Releases each to other for all demaunds whatsoever (except my one C.^{li} ster:, which I lent him on his own, his son and heires, & James Lowman their bonds) and I haue paid him 826^{li} ster: ffor the leas which I promised to make him of the howses adioyning to my dwelling howse in Dublin, and the shopp[s] vnder my gallery for 200 yeares, for the rent of a pair of Kiddlether gloves; And in this man[ner] he paid me 200^{li} for ffive yeares Rent ended at michas last at 40^{li} ster: Paid owt of vske and merreval the bond remayning with me for one C.^{li} therof: Thother C.^{li} is included as part of the 826^{li} I paie him for his interest of the howses & shoppes. And I also released vnto [21.] The L. of Baltinglas all my Right & mortgage which I had by any conveighance from his Lo^{p}, Sir Robert, Sir Edward Loftus, Randall Bruerton, and M^{r} Nichas whyte, in the Abbey and parsonadge of Baltinglas, excepting to me and my heires, my Inheritance in the Townes & Lands of wasterstown & newhaies, neer Kilkullen bridge, and in the Town & Lands and tyethes of Cannycowrt, dromkit, & Rathargett, all which ar parcels of thabbey of Baltinglasse.

22. M^r^ Robert Kennedy, by the direction and in the presence of Sir James carroll, did this day promise me in my gallery, that he would conveigh & Releas vnto me, the Townes of wasters-town & newhaies, neer the bridge, which ar parcels of Thabbey of Baltinglas, and wherof the good pattent was paste in truste to him and M^r^ John King deceased, for & to the vse of Sir James carroll; who with his Ladie, M^r^ Kennedy, & his wyffe, ar to pass me a ffyne therof the next tearm.

22. My noble frend david Lo. Roch, viscount ffermoy, died at Castletown.

22. This daie my lo. deputie departed Dublin to his new bwylding neer the Nasse & returned the 26 of this moneth; and the 27, being the coronacon, he ffeasted all the councell.

23. The Rectory and vickaridge of Kilbolane, being bothe impropriate to thabbey of Molannae, and bothe graunted to me, & my heires, by lettres pattents, I this day disappropriated the said vickaridge, by my making a presentacon therof to M^r^ Richard Jermyn, a M^r^ of Artes, a good preacher, and my son, Lord of Broghils, chaplyn; whome I haue now presented to that vicaridge.

29. I appointed M^r^ Vigors (whome the B^p^ of corke vniustly presented to the impropriated vickaridges of ffermoy,) to serve the cures there, till my comyng home, and then in regard he had submitted himself to myne own order, I would deal frendly with him.

29 ❧. In november, 1634, I made John M^c^ ffedmond a lease in Revercon after his mothers death of the ploughland of ballykenealy for 5000 yeares, if he & theires males of his boddy should so long live, at a mark a year Rent, a horseman, sute of court & mill; condiconally that if he fayled to paie me at Lismoor on May daie, 1636, clxx^{li} ster: the lease to be voyde. now this day he cam vnto me to Dublin, and brought me the lease I made him, to surrender it vnto me, ffor that he was not able to provide the 170^{li} to paie me on May day next, whervppon I haue endorsed vnder my hand vppon his lease, that I will make him a new leas lyke to this, paying me from his mothers death xvij^{li}. xiij^{s}. iiij^{d} ster: till he pay me 170^{li}, and afterwards but a mark. Etc.

30 ❧. This daie Sir James carroll made vp thaccompt between me and M^{rs} potts, (her husband being sick), for the sixe yeares arrears of newabbey, Nichelstown, westerstown, & Newhaies, at xiij^{li}. xv^{s} per annum; and there appeered to be due vnto me by Edward potts (over and above vj^{li}. xiij^{s}. iiij^{d} paid to Luke Nightingales man to my vse), the some of 75^{li}. 16^{s}. 8^{d} ster:, for and vntill Michas, 1635, besides what is due to me for this Easter Rent for wasterstown & Newhayes, which ar none of the lands of creewstace, nor decreed to Sir Robert Loftus, but ar parcels of the possessions of thabbey of Baltinglas, and sould to me & my heires by Sir James Carroll & M^{r} Robt. Keniedy: of which accompt, so made vp by Sir James, I hauve one coppie vnder his hand, and M^{rs} pottes hathe another to carry to her husbande.

❧ 30. wheras the castletown & lands of Ballynecargie in carbry, in the cowntie of corke, are in mortgage to me for lx^{li} ster:, I haue this day lent Rannell oge Hurly 20^{li} ster: more, which by his bill he is to repaie me, (or vnto Augustine Atkins at Bandonbridge to my vse.), or els to take in his former deed of mortgage, and to make me a new deed, including the 20^{li} he now borrowed of me, and therby raising the former mortgage to 80^{li}, and encreasing his rent from vj^{li} to viij^{li} per annum.

30 ❧. Lent murtoge M^c danyell o Bryen on Ballymoylen v^li and the laste of this moneth other xij^li. x^s ster: ; so as there is vnpaid but xij^li. x^s of the ffowr skoar pownds for John Bowrck to paie, for the lease, and mortgage of the plowland of Ballymoylen in dowarra; which xij^li. x^s I haue wrytten to John Bowrck, by M^r Bryen, to pay him on May day next, when the wrytings & possession shalbe given vp to him to my vse.

❧ 30. This laste daie of Marche 1636, at the great and often inpportuneties of my son dongarvan, and my cozen Sir W^m parsons, I was after many denyalls induced to Sign and seale an acknowledgment for the receipt of 2000^li ster: from Sir Addam Loftus, according [to] the condicon of a deed Indented, bearing date the 12 of November 1627, wherby the Mannor of Trym & Moyare, in the county of Meath, were by Sir Addam & his ffeoffes mortgaged to me and my ffeoffees in truste to me for lyffe, and after my decease for and to thvse of my son Robert Boyle, & to the firste issue male of his boddie, with other remaynder; which Release and acknowledgment was drawn vp (by M^r Bysse, Recorder of Dublin, and engrossed in part by my servant Vincent Boyse, and bears date the ffirste day of Auguste 1630, as by the true coppie therof, endorsed with the handwryting of Sir W^m parsons remayning amongst my papers appeereth. But the trueth is, I receaved no money of this 2000^li vntil the 19^th day of this present Marche, when I was paid by M^r Nichas Loftus, in two payments, 5100^li ster: in dischardg of all my estate & Mortgage which I had in the said Mannors of Trym and Moiare. And therfore in regard [of] this Release now antedated above ffive yeares before I perfected it in such vnwilling a manner, as my son, & Sir W^m parsons can witnes I did it; Sir W^m parsons hath sworne and given me his hand and ffaith not to deliver it out of his own hands & safe custody vntill

Sir Gerrard Lowther return to Dublin, and advize me [that] there can come no question or danger vnto me by satisfying this importunetie of the M^r^ of the wardes, & dongarvan.

31. This night the Lo. deputies young son by this Ladie, died in the Castle of Dublin, and I with many others, Lords, attended his ffvnerall in christchurch, Dublin, the Sondaie, in the evening following, beinge 3 Aprilis, 1636.

Aprill 1636.

2. I cleered thaccompt between the Lo. Calfeild and my self, for the rent of the Skiddies castle in corke, wherin the Kings mvnicon is kept, and gaue him my acquittance for xxvj^li^. v^s^ ster: for the rent therof vntill Michas 1634; and Thomas Tallis, late clearck of the mvnicons vnder his Lo^p^, brought me his bill to paie me the money, so soon as his Lo^p^ hath allowance therof in his accompt from his Maty; And Sir John Burlacie owes me also one year and a halfes Rent at our Ladie [day] last 1635, being xv^li^ ir.

2. Given Sir Henry Lee 14 yardes delivered of mingled coloured ffrize, made by page at Tallagh for a sute for my selfe, which coste me v^s^ a yarde.

2. I haue this day written to M^r^ walley to supply my nephue, John Boyle, vppon sight, with 120^li^ ster:, vppon his bill to repay it me on all St^s^ day next, which is to pay the Lady Maynard, who lent him soe muche money, vppon his own, Sir John Brown, Hodge power, and other yonge suerties bonds, to paie for the ffarm in castle Lyons, which he bought for Stephen Crowe, who fayled him therin.

2. This day M^r^ Robert Kennedy returned me the deed signed and sealed by him, by direction of Sir James Carroll, of wasters-town and Newhayes, neer Kilcullen Bridg, in the county of Kildare, parcell of the possessions of thabbey of Baltinglas, which he as ffeoffee and pattentee in truste for Sir James, made over to the L. Rannelaghe for and to thvse of me and my heires for ever: this land I give to my son Robert and his first son, Etc, as Rathargett, cannycort, dromkit ar already conveighed to him and his heires, with other remainders and vses dec[lared].

4. This daie my servant W^m^ Barber by my order delivered M^r^ walter white his Ma^ts^ late receavor 500^li^ of myne in gowlde, vppon his noate to repaie it me the vj^th^ of this moneth; which money I so lent and delivered him at thentreatie of Sir James Carroll to make a tendre of to the Lo. of Baltinglas in redemption of the Rectory of Baltinglas, for form sake; for it will not be accepted of. And M^r^ walter white brought me back my 500^li^ in golde the 6 of this moneth; whervppon I returned him his bill.

5. This daie the Lo. deputie satt in the starrchamber, his lo^p^ having laste Sondaie morning, being the Third of this moneth, sent for me out of the with drawing chamber into the gallery, where he first desired me to speak to my daughter Dongarvan (in regard of the death of his yongest son) to defer the Xtening of her daughter till thursday following. And after towld me, that the Kings attorney would, on the tuesday following, move for publication of the witnesses which had been exāied between the King & me, & for a day of heering: And this, being the day, I attended his L[ordship] in the gallery before he went to the court, & put [him] in mynde of his promise and agreement made to and with me the 30^th^ of october laste; when I delivered him secretarie windebancks lettres signefying his Ma^ts^ pleasure that when all witnesses were exāied, his L[ordship] should make a true relacon of the State of the Cawse, and licens me to goe over to the Kinge therwith. And that in the mean [time] his Lo^p^ would not putt pen to paper, or wryte any thing to his Ma^ty^, or any other, in any thing concerning me, or my cawse, and vrged my promise, to vse the lyke forbearrance of wryting, or other solicitacons, which I had performed. And that now a speedy daie of heering, should be moved for and assigned, before suche relacon was made to his Ma^{ty}, (considering what had past between his Lo^{p} and the Lo. Rannelagh in this cawse) semed vearie sodden, and moste strandge vnto me. His Lo^{p} thervppon acknowledged all I had said to be true, and that according to his promise he had not since wrytten any thing concerning me, or my cawse, but yet he receaved answer of former lettres he had wrytten to his Ma^{ty} heerin; and had power to proceed, or to stay all further proceeding againste me in the starchamber; and that if it should be brought to any publicque heering, yt should be thorogh my own wilfulness and defalt, that would never be ruled or advized by him, who had been, and would be the beste frend I had. But heard, or otherwise ended, it should be, before he went into England, that he might give his Ma^{ty} an accompt therof at his arrivall at court. And that he would call 3 of my best frends, the lo. of Rannelagh, Sir W^{m} parsons & Sir Gerrard Lowther, & he the M^{r} of the Rolles & Sir George Ratcliff, and if they all did not make it appeer vnto me that I deserved censure, I should be free.

5. vppon M^{r} attorneis motion for publicacon of the witnesses exãied in the starchamber sute between his ma^{ty} and me, I freely consented to present publicacon for soe much as concerned my particuler, so it might be no preiudice to thother two defendants, viz, The L. Bicshop of Corke, and dermott Dingle; but to haue so sodden a heering, as the Tuesday ffortnight next following, viz, the 25th of this moneth being St Marckes daye, I did not consent vnto, alledging the tyme was to shorte; yet the Lo. deputie ordered that peremptorery to be the day for heering.

8. I delivered M^r^ W^m^ Supples old Deed of his lands, made by Robert ffitz stephen, the Conquerer, vnto phillip de Capella, ancestor to W^m^ Supple, to be redelivered him by Sir peercie Smyth ; for which I haue his note of Receipt.

10. I lent M^r^ walter mavnsfeld, of Ballymvltena, 20^s^ ster.

11. I gave M^r^ Sambedg v^li^, and to M^r^ Marten v^li^, and to M^r^ polliexfen v^li^, and to M^r^ Stoughton vij^li^. vj^s^. iiij^d^ for coppies of deposicons in my sute in the starrchamber.

20 15. I having lent gratis, the 5 of november laste, one C.^li^ ster: to the lo. of Baltinglas on his own, his son and heir, & James Lowmans bond, which is yet owinge vnto me; And wheras I had 620^li^ of myne resting in M^r^ George Hellyar of Bristolls hands, as soe muche moneis of myne paid him to my vse, by Rowland colston, for 50 tons of Barr Iron he bought of [22.] me for 625^li^, I now assigned the said Helliar vppon my lettres to pay 603^li^ to the lo. of Baltinglas, and to reserv to himself the remayn of xxj^li^ in satisfaction of soe much money which he affirmes he lent to my son Lewis ; and vppon the L. of Baltinglasses, his sons, and M^r^ Lowmans statute, as also vppon thassignment of a Recognezance of [blank] of Sir W^m^ Hull & our [illegible] from the L. of Baltinglas to me for securing me of the payment of eight hundreth and ten pounds ster: on the second day of november, 1637, I gaue his Lo^ps^ bylls of exchandge to recav of George Hellyar 603^li^, his bond wherby he owed me the C.^li^ I lent him, and xl^s^ in money to pay for the chardges of the statute staple, as M^r^ Lowman said. [In margin by Lord Cork's son—"Sir W^m^ Hulls Recognezance due to the Lord Baltinglas by him assigned my father."—G.]

15. I freely bestowed on M^r^ Thomas Lyttle, one of the secretaries to the L. deputy, ffive warrants of full paie due, amounting vnto 205^li^ ster:, which was due vnto me ffor the ffees of the Constable and warders of Dongarvan, as by the warrants of the Lo. Grandizon & the L. ffalckland and the Lo. dockwaies accompt made vp, being Threasurer at warres, vnder his hand appeared.

15. I this daie in presence of John Meers, Tho. Badnedg, Thomas Hinson, and others, accompted with samuell Easte for my arrears by him due owt of canneycowrt and dromkit; which at 14^{li} per annum, he acknowledged to haue had 5 yeares, and to be owing vnto me for that tyme 70^{li} ster:, which he desirred me to give him tyme for till next Midsomer, which I desired; And then I delivered John Meers, M^{r} Robert Kennedies deed to the Lo. Rannelagh to my vse in truste, of the Townes of westerstown, and newhaies, & his Lo^{ps} lettre of attorney for J[ohn] Meers to deliver, & possession to patrick St Lawrenc to his Lo^{ps} vse, who is to bring them perfected vnto me; but patrick refuzed, & it was delivered to davyd Gibbon.

17. The 17 [of Marche, inserted overhead.—G.] being St. patricks daie, 1635, my sons Lewis and Roger (who embarcqued at dublin, with their sister Goring, and after they had the honnor to kiss the Royall hands of the Kinge & queen) and obteyned his Ma^{ts} licens, and pasport to travaile into fforeign Kingdomes, they both with their Tutor departed London, and the 20th of this moneth arrived (God be ever praised) at deep [Dieppe], in ffrance, whence they ar (god guiding them) to travaile to paris, and thence to their studies at Geneva, where I beseech thalmightie to bless & prosper them.

17. This day being Easter day, 1636, I receaved againe into my service [blank] Sowthwick to be my Steward, at 20^{li} wages. They came to London the seconde of March, and departed thence the xvij of Marche, 1635, their diett in that tyme came [to] 34^{li} iiij^{s} ster.

20. I receaved letters from Sir Robert parckhurste, of London, that he had receaved for me in London from Xtofer croker, of Lismoor, one thowsand pownds ster: (as part of 2400li he owes me); And from my cozen Mr Thomas Burte, other cc li, in all 1200li; wherof he hath paid by my order to my servant Thomas Badnedg 300li, to Mr Macrobus 230li, to Mr James walshe of waterford one C.li, in all 630li, so rests of myne in his hands 570li, towards the payment of one thowsand pounds to Sir John Jephson; which I vndertook to paie him for the debt of Sir peercie Smyth.

20. My cozen Burtes lettres, which I this day receaved, give me notice that of the 2500li he owes me by bond that he hath paid therof for my vse to Sir Robert parckhurste of London 200li, and that vppon my lettres he hathe also delivered to my ꝏ nephue Boyle Smithe other 40li, which 40li Sir peercie Smythe is to repaie me, for that at his request I gaue order to haue it so paid his brother, to supply him withall.

20. Mr James walsh of waterford, vppon my lettres to Sir Robert parckhurste, receaved from him of my moneis one C.li ster:, which by his lettres he hathe promised to repay me in Dublin next Easter term; which he performed, Etc.

20 ꝏ. This daie vppon capn charles prices lettres to Randall Aldersie to know whether I would any longer keep the 440li due to him by my bill the xj of June next, which I refuzing, I gaue Wm barber (though he had not my bill) [order] to paie the 400li with soe muche of thvse money as was due from the xjth of June vntill this day, vnto Mr Randall Aldersey, for and to the vse of capn price, vppon his acquittance, and vndertaking to procure my said bill. And at my motion Mr Aldersey delivered over the money to the Lo. Digbye vppon his bond, and on the lyke condicons that I held it, (for his Lop to redeem therwith the Mannor of Lex from Mr Aylmer); for repayment of which money, I stand engaged with the Lo. digby, as his suerty, by my vndertaking vnder my hand endorsed on the said bond, that if his Lo^p^ faile to paie it, then I will.

23. Thevening of this daie M^r^ Georg Carr, secretary to my Lo. Deputy [desired me] to deliver vnto Sir W^m^ Rives certen wrytings, viz, the deed of Sir James ffullerton, of the colledg of yoghall, my coppie of thoffice for the presentacon; The lettres of attorney to Sir Laurence parsons, and my lettres pattents of the said presentacons; which 4 wrytings I sent him by Badnedg and Hinson, saving Sir Ja ffullerton[s] deed, which could not be fownd; and for the rest I haue Sir W^ms^ receipt.

25. This St. Marcks day, the L. deputie, the M^r^ of the Rolles, & Sir George Ratcliff, by his no[m]iacon, the L. Rannelagh, the M^r^ of the wardes, and the Lo. cheefe Justice of the Comon pleas, whome the L. deputy nominated to Joyn with him, and thother 2 as my best frends; had a private meeting in the castle about my starr chamber busines, and spent tyme in debating therof from 9 in the morning till 2 in thafternoon, and in thend gave me tyme till the 27 of this moneth to consider what I would doe; and if that day I did not resolv him His lo^p^ would haue the cawse to be publicquely heard in the castle chamber, the day following.

27. This daie being designed for me to deliver my resolucon to the L. Deputie, I attended him vppon the Tarras between the 2 towers of the Castle, where after two howres private discours, in relating my own Innocencie and cleernes from the crymes exprest in the starchamber bill, I concluded, that as I had formerly left the marraidge of my son and heir to his disposall, and that my lo. clifford in his laste lettres had advized me to referr my selfe and cawse to his Lo^p^, and that nothing did so much harme me as the suspicon I had of his Lop^s^ good affection towards me, I would therfore wholy submitt my selfe, and cawse, to his Lo^p^ own doom, who best knew my Integrety and shewed my self confident in his former promises that he would deale nobly in the conclusion with mee, & as he had protested, prove my best ffrend in the shutting vp of this matter. His lo^p^ was also moved by me, to declare vnto his Ma^ty^ how free I was from the ffforgery of putting the colledge seale to my deed, and that the deed was firste read, exāied, and consented vnto by the warden, fellows & ordenarie and patron in the chapter howse in yoghall, and that it was then agreed, that the ordenary, patron, & warden, should bring their seales with them about St. James tyde, and meet at Sir Geffrey ffentons hows in dublin, & then & there seale it; which was performed accordingly. To which his Lo^p^ answer was, that he would not for a worlde do that, but that the bill in the starchamber, and all the proceedings should be taken from the ffyle, & never after rise vp in Judgment to preiudice me in honnor or reputacon, or my posterety, and that in his relacon, he would make therof to his Ma^ty^, he would slyde by that part, without towching vppon it. But for my referring it soly to himself, he said it was to[o] great a busines for him to vndertake, neither would he take it wholy by & soly vppon himselfe. But he would haue a conferrence presently with those ffive persons that first assisted him in the private heering therof, & thervppon willed Bentely, the purcevant, to call them; and so dismissed me.

28. This day he had a new conferrence with the Lord of Rannelagh alone, and aggravated those crymes soe vniustely laid againste me in the starr chamber bill, asking him what I said to the payment of the 15000^li^, that in their former private debate, his lo^p^ thought fitt to impose vppon me, for the mean proffits of the colledg and livings therof, & thoffences wherwith I stood chardged ; He (as he related it vnto me) answered, that himself, the M^r^ of the wardes, and Sir Gerrard Lowther, Lo. cheef Justice of the Comon pleas, when they lefte his lo^p^, fownde me in the Gallery, and he being enforced to be the reporter therof, towld me that his lo^p^ thought it fytt, to impose 15000^li^ fyne vppon me, and that he would be a sutor to his Ma^ty^ that soe all things might be cleered, and that I might haue the colledg howse, gardens, and grownds to me, and my heires for ever. And what answer made the L. of corke thervnto, said the L. deputy ; ffaith he said onely, quoth Rannellagh, that then if it were soe, he hoped your Lo^p^ would give him 15 yeares to pay it in, and that he would goe home, and drynck a cup of sack to wash awaie the care therof; And thervppon your L[ordship] the Lord deputy cam owt vppon vs, which brake awf our further discowrse, and he wayted vppon you into the councell chamber to sitt vppon the comission of defective tytles. Then he prest Rannelagh to know what I would offer his Ma^ty^ to be freed from all those trowbles and demaunds : He vowed (as the trueth was) that he never heard me enclyned to offer any thing, for that I stood vppon my own Innocencie, and Justefication. Well, said the L. deputy, if his Ma^ty^ accept of 15000^li^ from him, my L. of Corke will save other 15000^li^, that by censure shalbe imposed vppon him ; and if I shall not haue his resolucon by too morrow morninge, I will send to his Mat^ts^ learned Councell to be reddy ✍ and prepared againste Monday morning, & then the cawse shalbe heard in Court & censured. And that night, the L. prymate came vnto me, and acquainted me with the lyke discourse had with his L[ordship].

29. This night my daughter Dongarvan fell sick, and the next day, being the laste of this moneth, the Small pockes brake owt vppon her.

29. This daie after I had considered with my self the dangers approching, and who should be my Judges, and that my Lo. deputie not onely had with vehemence deeply protested to the Lo. Rannelagh, the M^r^ of the wardes, to my son Dongarvan, as also vnto my self, that he would censure me for fordging the deed made of the Colledg of yoghall to Sir Lawrence parsons to my vse, and ffyne me thirtie Thowsand pownds, except I sent him such an offer as was fytt for him to accept of, for the mean proffits of the colledg for 30 yeares past, which his lo^p^ vallued at 500^li^ ster a year, and for which I was iustely to be charged to his Ma^ty^ for; I sent my son Dongarvan to his Lo^p^, (ffor that when I had solie submytted my self and cawse to his own censure, and that he had refused to take it wholy on himself; but threatened me with a present heering, and censure, except I made him a ffree and voluntarie offer,) I being in this extremety, to pacefie and satisfie his lo^p^, gaue dongarvan order to tendre him ten Thowsand pounds ster, or if that would not be by him accepted, to rise my offer (rather then incense him higher,) to 15000^li^ irish; which my son did, but bothe those offers being by his lo^p^ reiceted and despised: the Cawse was againe, by the mes-
[30.] sadge of the Lo. deputy, sent me (on the laste day of this moneth,) by M^r^ George Carr, & M^r^ Thomas Lyttle, 2 of his lo^ps^ secretaries, appointed to be publicquely heard in Court, the Monday following, being the 2 of May; which, after our private heering, wherin I had manifested all my acquittals, and defences, I well know, would arme and prepare them for the moste advantageous streignes againste me, whose ruyn they maynlie endeavour. After I had by thimportuneties of my beste ffrends, the L. primate, the L. Rannelagh, the L. president of Mownster, the M^r^ of the wardes, the vicetreasurer, the L. cheef Justice Lowther, but moste of all by my son Dongarvan, who would needs haue me rather then come to a publicque heering, yeald to offer his Lo^p^, for his Ma^ty^, 15000^li^ ster: ; (which must againste my own disposicon, I was enforced & over Ruled to doe, 2 May, 1636). And this morning when the Lo. chancellor, the Judges, and all the Lords and councell were assembled to attend the Lo. deputy to the court, and my evidences & learned councell being gon before, prepared for the heering: I was, by the M^r^ of the wardes, called into the Lo. deputies chamber, Etc.

Maye 1636.

℔ 1 ℔. This May daie, I lent gratis in ready money the iuste some of one Thousand pownds ster: to the Lorde viscount ffitz williams of Merriam, to redeem from M^r^ Alderman Jans, his Lo^ps^ lands of Symondscourt, the wa[illegible]ren, & the Rings end; without which Kyndnes of myne, he had by non payment therof, on this daie, fforfeicted all those lands to M^r^ Jans, for M^r^ dowdals children, who ar vnder age: And for my repayment therof (on the 2 of November next in my howse in Dublin) his Lo^p^, and his son and heir, haue mortgaged to my cozen, Richard parsons, esqr, his mannor of Merryyong, and are to enter into a statute staple of 2000^li^ for performing of covenants as was agreed vppon by M^r^ Burford, his councell, and M^r^ Sambedge of my councell, to whome the deeds were sealed & delivered; all being in truste, to the vse of me, and my heires.

2 ℔. This morning when my councell (with my pleadings and evidences) were gon to the court of Castlechamber, prepared for the hearing of my cawse, the L. chancellor, the Judges and councellors, being all assembled at the castle to attend the L. deputie to the court, I came into the gallery, where the Lo. chancellor in private vsed many arguments and reasons to bring me to a private composicon, rather then vnto a publicque and present heering. Then the M^r^ of the wardes (& Sir Addam Loftus, who went firste with Sir George Ratcliff into the Lo. Deputies chamber), after some half hower spent in private with his Lo^p^, came, and called me in to his Lo^p^, & after many debates, rather then I would adventure the danger of a censure, which was sharply, and heavely thretned, I condescended to agree to all that my Lo[rd] had of himself propounded, and because he would conclude nothing positively, except it did first proceed, as an offer of my own, therby to haue no ranclingiths [ranklings?] against my selfe; the M^r^ of the wardes in my name and presence, did for me say, I would give his Ma^ty^ ffifteen Thowsand pounds ster. The daies after som debate were agreed vppon to be there in ade, viz.

☙ 2 ☙. In margin by Lord Cork's son—"A Relation of the Lord wentworth's proceedings against my father in the star chamber."—G.] I am to paie to his Ma^ty^ for my Redempcon owt of the Court of castle chamber (though my Innocencie and Integretie be as cleer as the son at high noon), and that my own conscience neither dooth, nor can accuse me of any wilfull cryme or abuse worth any censure, yet to prevent censure, I haue yelded to paie the King 5000 ^li^ in hand, 5000^li^ more on Midsomer day, 1637, and thother 5000^li^, to make my laste payment, on Midsomer day, 1638, in all ffyfteen Thowsand pownds ster:, ffor which ffyne, or rather high Ransome, thus vndeservedly imposed vppon me, god forgive the L. deputy & his great councellor, Sir Georg Ratcliff; yet as god shall enhable me, I will by his grace, paie it freely and willinglie for that it is to come to my good and graceows King, and Master, for whose service I would moste readely sacrefice lyffe & estate. And my sowle assures me soe fully of his Ma^ty^ Religeowsnes & Justice, that if he were rightly enformed how vnderservedly this mighty ffyne is thus drawn from me, he would not take one penney therof.

2. His Lo[p] did then and there alsoe saie, that thinformacon in the court of Castlechamber, and all other the Records & proceedings in that cawse, should be taken from the ffyle, & be dampned, that neither my self, nor any of my posteretye should heerafter be blemisshed thereby; which whether it be or noe, I care not, ffor if the whole proceedings, proofes, and examinacons of witnesses be kept of Recorde together, the whole matter will iustefie me, and in after tymes testefie my sufferings, and vppon what proofes it was don. The L. deputy hathe alsoe promised to move his Ma[ty] (with whome he dowbts not to prevaile), to procure to me and my heires a new graunt of the colledg howse, garden, & lands thervnto belonging. But for the Rectoryes, vickaridges & tyethes I shall haue none of them, but they shalbe all made preerbative (?). And the perfideows L. B[p] of corke, my faythles & vnthanckfull kinseman, whome I haue raised from being a poor schoolmaster at Barnett, where he had but a stipend of 20[li] ster: per annum, and hath been by my onely favor advanced to all that he is now come vnto, hath by falce invencons don all this, and saieth it is ffelix solus.

3. By Augustine Atkins lettres he certefies me though ffrances Barnad[e] hath bought margan powldens lease (which I gratis bestowed vppon him) of Castletown, for 200[li] ster:, wherof he is to paye me the laste daie of this moneth for arrears 50[li] ster:, and for our Ladies [day] Rent, last, other 30[li], in bothe 80[li]; and that he hath so farr made vp thaccompt between me and John Turners widdow as she is at least in my debt 62[li], wherof she hath paid him for me x[li]; So between them both they owe me above one cxxx[li].

☙ 3. This daie I lent gratis to M[r] James plunckett, of donsoghly, 200li ster:, repaiable at all Sts next, vppon his own, his sons, & Mr pallices bonds; which money I lent freely to preserve his lands of dobber redeemable this day from Sir Samuell Miryart, which if I had not lent him in ready money this day 200li ster: had been forfeicted. Which 200li he repaid the Mr of the wardes for me, who by himself or by my servant Thomas Hinson delivered those cclli to Mr Nichas Loftus, of whome I borrowed it.

3. I sent by Hinson to Mr pollexfen, Mr Marten & Mr Sambedg vjli ster: in goold, viz., two peeces to each of them for their standinge ffees for this Easter tearm. And I paid Mr collyns ijli ster: for 2 Knitt sylke wastcoats for my somer wearings.

6 ꝺo. This day I delivered Mr wiseman, solicitor for thearle of Kildare, in the presence of Sir Addam Loftus, those 3 deeds, and those three Recoveries towching castletown, Moylagh, which the L. Justice Lowther & the L. cheef Barron wrote vnto me to send them: To thend thearles councell might prepare and consider of them before the deeds were given vp to those Judges, that were made Referrences by the L. deputie, grownded on his Matys lettres in the behalfe of the Cowntess of Tirconnell; which deeds and Recoveries he the day following returned vnto me; and the 16 I sent them by Jo. Eddow with Mr Nichas Barnewall and his Countess to the L. Justice Lowther.

9 ꝺo. I this daie paid the Lo. Bicshop of Corke 150li ster: in dischardg of all mean proffits, Rents, and arrears demaundable by him owt of Kilbeg, Kilbrogan, and Knockbrogan rout, three plowlands, parcell of the possessions of the temporalties of the Bicshoprick of corke, demised by the Bp, dean, and chapter to Edward Beecher in Ao 1607, for lxj yeares at iijli ster: per annum; which lease I purchazed for 500li ster. And the now Bicshop seeking to overthrow & avoyde my said lease, for that Bp Lyons was onely consecrated Bicshop of Roscarbry, and but comendatory Bicshop of cork & cloyn, refuzed for to receav my Rent ffor the laste ffour yeres and a half ended at Easter, 1636, but peticoned againste me to the L. deputy; to which I answered, and he replyed, till this day we composed all demaunds of arrears, and that I should enio[y] my possession so long as he continewed Bp of Corke for this cli.

12. I sent the L. Rannalaghes lettres, which he wrote to Sir John Jephson (with my advice) in answer of his proposicon for the sale vnto me of the ffee simple of Moallo, and the rent beeves of carby for 8000li; which lettres were by me this day delivered to my tennant Mr Jessop, of Ballyknock, to be lefte at Sir Jo[hns] Lodging at a gonmakers ner the turning stile in Holborn.

13 do. Thomas fforan shewed me this daie a coppie of a deed of Ballyhob, neer Broghill, made by Ellorne & Ulick o Keeff her son, wherby they mortgaged it to Redmond ffitz gerald for a C. cowes. and assureth me that Sir Wm hath the orrigenall deed, which I must gett from him, to entitle the King by do thattainder of Redmond.

13. This daie Sir John Bowen and his Ladie, with Mr Marten, their learned councell, paid me one hundreth pounds ster:; ffor which I paste vnto them all my rights in the owld castle & lands of Rosbranagh, neer Athy, in the county of Kildare, & the queens county, and delivered vp vnto them the deed that Henry Staines paste me therof, with warrantize in the deed I paste them therof; with warrantize againste me, my heires and assignes, and all clayming vnder me or my Right; and no other right or tytle whatsoever.

14 do. This day the Mr of the wardes, the Lo. cheef Justice of the cowrt of comon pleas, the M^r^ of the Rolles, Sir George Ratcliff, M^r^ Richard Lowther, solicitor for the Lorde clyfford, M^r^ Sambedg, the councellor that assisted in drawing vp the conveighances for setling the greatest parts of my lands and Inheritance vppon my ffive sons (whome I beseech god to bless therwith), mett in my gallery, where (as I was advised by my learned councell) I firste perfected a deed of Revocation; then Sir W^m^ parsons, in the presence of them all present, paid me iij^li^ in golde, as a consideracon to make him a bargayn & sale of all my said lands for two yeres to himself, Sir W^m^ ffenton, Sir peercie Smyth, and Sir John Brown, my ffeoffees in truste, which I then also perfected: Then after that was don, I perfected a third deed of Release & conveighance of the Revercon & Rents of the premises to my said ffowr ffeoffees, in the presence of those witnesses; and the M^r^ of the Rolles entred the capcon & Recoincon of those 3 deeds and subscribed them to be enrolled.

17 ꝺ. W^m^ chettle by my order paid M^r^ Thomas Casie the some of 500^li^ ster:; which for thee debt of Sir Hardress waller, K^t^, I engaged my self to paie M^r^ Casie at Lismoor the tenth daie of this moneth. But he not demaunding of it at Lismoor, gave me a hogshead of wyne to paie it him heer in Dublin, which I haue don; as also thother 500^li^ to my L. Rannelagh to the vse of M^r^ dowdall, son to M^r^ Edward dowdall, Register of the chancerie, in dischardge of my lyke vndertaking for Sir Hardress waller; who hath with assurance of 2 ploughlands, in the county of Lymerick, secured my repayment of this 1000^li^ ster: so disbursed for him, with eight in the hundred, till I shalbe repaid my 1000^li^.

20 ꝺ. This daie, with thasistance of Sir James caroll, I grew to a conclusion with M^r^ Edward potts, of New abby, and he is duely indebted vnto me for arrears of Rent for & vntill Michas Laste, 1635, in the some of 75li. 16s. 8d ster: & for his ffathers herriott, iijli. iiijs. iiijd, In all 80li; ffor payment wherof in my howse in Dublin on Midsomer day next, 1636, pottes hath given vp vnto me the orriginall lease made to Thomas potts his ffather of the new abbey, Nichelstown, westerstown and Newhaies, by Sir Henry Harrington and his english ffeoffees, and made an assignement on the back side of the leas, of all his right estate & demaund therin, to my son dongarvan, condiconed, that if he pay him 80li ster: on the 24 of June next, Then he to have his lease agayn. And heervppon I gaue him an acquittance for his said arrears and herriot, without demaunding the dowble Rent, nõre pene, though by his Leas it was due vnto me.

14. This daie I cleered with Mr Samuell Easte for tharrears of 7 yeres for Canny coort, & dromkit, ended at May daie laste, (the former arrears due vnto me being to be chargdeable on Mr grace & his wife), vppon which accompt he is in my debt 98li ster:; ffor which I haue taken his single bill of debt to pay me xxxli ster: on Midsomer daie next, other xxxli at shroftyde following, and the remayn of xxxviijli on Midsomer day 1637; at which agreement John Meers, of Kilgoon, was present and a witness. ☞ My rent is but 14li per annum although Easte paie for the lands and the tythes 50li a year, and would give me 50li a year for the lands alone.

2. My cozen, James Boyle of Maismore in glocestershier, cam hether vnto me the 24 of November laste, with lettres from his mother offeringe me the purchace of her lease of Maismore, wherin there is abowt 31 yeares (of the 99 yeares the B^p firste made [lease] therof) yet vnexpired ; and this day he left Lismoor and I bestowed on him a good Roan gelding, (which I had of Sir peercie smyth in exchandg) and ten peeces, and wrott to his mother, that I had appointed my servant Tho cross, to take a surveigh therof, and that with her, & thother two gent interested, viz. M^r pembridge and M^r Brem, and if he could agree with them all three that he should make a condiconall conclusion with them all three for a some in grose, & let them amongste themselves devide, and share it, and if vppon Tho crosses surveigh, and retorn therof, and their selling price vnto me, I did approve and accept therof, I would vppon their perfecting of my assurances, paie the money at Bristoll, which I estimate, if it be worth de clare 400^li per annum amount for the tearm of xxxj yeares vnto 3000^li ster :, And by my said cozen I sent my lettres to Thomas Cross, which he promised presentlie after his arrivall to ryde to Stalbridg, and deliver him, as also the Rentall of the Mannor of standish, which Sir Raph dutton sent me by my said cozen, tendreing me the sale therof.

4. My nephue, Boyle smith, this daie took leave of me at Lismoor, to travaile directle to Geneva, and from thence to accompanie my two yonger sons, Lewis and Roger, in their next Somers Jorney into Italie, and ffrance. He carried with him the dowbles of my former lettres to W^m perckins, with my third bills of exchandg inclosed in myne to M^r perckins to have 600^li paid them in Geneva, and duplicates of my former lettres sent by M^r Bendict cleybrook of waterford, merchant, to my said two sons, and M^r macrombes their Tutor & governor ; and other my lettres to my daughter Goring, as also to Sir Henry wotton, ffrances, Robert, and their servant carew at Eaton. I furneshed Boyle Smyth with 50^li in gold to defray his travelling chardges abroad till december next, which 50^{li} his brother is to repaie me in Aprill next, with other 120^{li} he owes me for the thowsand I lent him to purchaze the Rectory of Adare. And I bestowed on Boyle Smyth v^{li} in golde, And sent by him two angels as tokens for ffranck & Robin at Eaton.

4. thearle of Kildare and his countess, with the young Lo. of ophaly, their son and heir, cam to visitt me in my infirmety to Lismoor, & with them Sir John Brown and his Lady, & M^{r} stephen crowe and my neece, and departed from Lismoor to castlelyons the thirteenth.

11. The Lo. Bicshop of Lymerick cam alsoe to Lismoor to see me, and he & Sir W^{m} ffenton departed hence the 15th.

12. After I had by my Lo. digby made an offer to Sir John Jephson, and his son and heir M^{r} W^{m} Jephson, to treat with the L. president of Mounster, & M^{r} Tho. Betsworthe for the purchace of the howse, town, and seiginory of Moallo, The Rent Beeves of carbrye, and the lease of 2 ploughlands neer Moalloe, wherin Sir John hath a lease of 19 yeares to come at v^{li} per annum, ffor which I was demaunded eighteen thowsand pownds ster:, And I had by my Lo. digbie offered to give ffifteen thowsand pownds ster:, And to pay ten thowsand pownds ster: amount therof vppon the perfecting of my assurance, and their delivery vp of the quiett possession therof vnto me, And to secure the payment of the laste ffive thowsand pownds ster: to their good contentment, and to paie eight in the hundreth till I did satisfie the same, either at Moallo, Lismoor or dublin, waterford, yoghall or Cork. But vnder eighteen thowsand pounds ster:, to be all paid in england, they would not descend, nor make any abatement; whervppon it was agreed between us, that against Candlemas day I should employe M^{r} John walley to Moallo, to view and take the particulers of the purchaze into a iuste valluacon, and to examen vppon sight of the deeds of ffee ffearmes & leases, what was graunted to every particuler tennant, what Rent was reserved, whether the Rents were duely answered, & whether all suche things as were in grawnt or lease, were worthy the Rentes, And in regard of the L. presidents R[emoval?] from moallo, to his own howse at donnarayle, they were lyke to continew constant Rents, or would admit any Improvement.

Whervppon it appeered, that Sir Randall cleytons and williamsons their ffee ffarme rents did amount vnto xix^{li}. x^{s}. ij^{d} ster: per annum; which in regarde they were drie Rents, that for the tyme to come could not be encreased, were valued at twelve yeares purchaze, and did for sale amount vnto 234^{li}. 2^{s} ster. The mannor howse of Moallo with the orchards, gardens, curtiladges, howses of office, pidgeon howse, Etc, with the 150 acres of land, laied as a demesn to the howse now occupied by the Lo. president, with the parck of deer vallued at cxl^{li} a year, did amount at 16 yeares purchaze vnto 2240^{li} ster.

The leased land (which are veary high lett, and dowbtfull whether they will continew the payment of them) which being rented at 608^{li}. 8^{s}. 4^{d}, vallewed at 16 yeares purchac doe amount vnto 9730^{li}. 13^{s}. 4^{d} ster.

The coppiehowldes now rented xxxiij^{li}. ij^{s}, rated for sale at 16 yeares purchaze, doe amount vnto 529^{li}. 12^{s} ster.

The smale connye warren and some waste guillets of Land over estimated to be worthe xvj^{li}. v^{s} rent, when heerafter they shalbe tenanted, vallued at 16 yeares purchace amounts vnto 260^{li} ster.

The Rent of o callaghans lease, wherof 19 yeares ar vnexpired at the yearlie rent of 51^{li}. 6^{s}. 8^{d}, vallued at five yeares purchac, doth amount vnto 256^{li}. 13^{s}. 4^{d}.

The Earles Rent beeves of carbry, for which is paid yearly in money 62li. 15s, vallued at 12 yeares purchace amounts vnto 753li, Totall, 14004li ster: owt of which allowance is to be given to the purchaser ffor the Kinges exchequer Rent, which being for the mannor and seiginorie xxxiijli. vjs. viijd ster:, and for the ffaires and marckets xvs (besides the ffees of acquittances and quietus est) dothe at twelve yeares rate for the purchaze amount vnto 409li, And the remayn de clare, for the purchaze at those extream high rates above particularly menconed, dothe amount vnto o 13595li. os. 8d ster:, yet in regard I was desirous to haue a howse fytting, and readie for my son and heir Dongarvan to dwell and keep-howse in by himself during my own lyffe, so as after my decease might be in a readiness, and then yealded vp to my yongest son, Robert Boyle, wherby he might haue that seiginorie as a good addicon to the rest of his estate, and be therin placed amongste his other 4 brothers, I offered ffyfteen thowsand pounds ster: for it.

5 ꝺo. This daie I accompted and cleered with daniell Mc Dermott o cullane for all tharrears of Rent he did owe me for, and vntill Michas, 1636, and his former arrears, with xxli. vijs. vjd now paid vnto him doe make vp a C.li, which being added to the 400li ster:, for which he had formerly mortgaged vnto me his town and ploughland of Curryhoo, in Cowrcies Cowntrey, dooth encrease my mortgage vnto 500li, ffor the rent wherof he is henceforward to paie me, and my son ffrances 50li ster: per annum till Redemption. And in november following he fell to a second accompt with me when for Rents and lent moneis he did owe me other 80li, in all 580 Rent 58li.

10. I this day supplied Tho. Barry ffitz James with 4li, and there wilbe at our Ladie [day] next, 1637, other 20^{li} ster : due to me, for the halfe yeares rent of Ballybollohan, which he hath formerly mortgaged to me for 400^{li}, whervppon I haue taken his acquittance for M^{r} Mantles rent, due at May next, at 48^{li} per annum, who thervppon is then to pay me his half yeares rent, it being 24^{li} ster.

℔ 12. I made tendre all day in my hall of Lismoor of 2000^{li} for thearle of Castlehaven.

℔ 15. I haue this day examyned what my disburcements haue been towards the bwilding of my new intended school and almeshowses at Bandonbridge, and by accompts made with M^{r} walley and ffrances smyth, the contractor and cheef worckman there, it appeereth that I am owt [of pocket], for providing materralls to sett forward that charitable worck, in ready money cccxxxj^{li}. xvj^{s}. viij^{d} ster :, and no stone therof yet laid, of which money, 60^{li} was paid to M^{rs} Grice, for buying in a lease of a parcell of land which she held from me for rent in coolfadda side, where M^{r} wiseman first intended to have my ffree school and Almeshowses should haue been erected. But I mislyking that ground and place for the situacon therof, haue chosen a fytter place on the south side of the bridge, And at my own chardges, haue made a new bridge of lyme and Stone over the smaller River of bandon, to mak a faier and drye passadg to those my new intended bwildings.

℔ 16. I this daie agreed and entred into covenants and articles with John Lodden, free mason, to erect and bwild at my sole chardges a substancall bridge of lyme and Stone over the ffowr myle water alies the River of the Neer, neer castleconagh, in the way to clonmell, being a veary dangerows ffoord to passe over after any great Rayn or fflowd, and moste yeares some drowned in that passadg : ffor bwilding and the absolute fyneshing of which bridge, it being a worck of charrety, I am to pay him one hundreth pownds ster:, wherof Imprest to him this day ten pownds ster.

NOTES AND ILLUSTRATIONS.

„ 5. 'New years guifts'—We have before noticed that while the legal year commenced March 25th annually, January 1st is in this Diary the day for bestowing and receiving New Year's gifts. Another remark seems called for. Usage, if not affection, would not permit our accepting souvenirs merely to pass them on to some one else; but the Earl of Cork felt no sentimental squeamishness. He chronicles in the same paragraph the gifts of his friends and his bestowing them elsewhere immediately. These lights and shadows of public opinion and sentiment and conduct are noteworthy.

„ 6. 'portes' = gates. Ibid. 'bwyldings at Maynooth'—We have had numerous prior references to these 'bwyldings.' It was but the rebuilding of the mansion on the olden site. Maynooth (in Irish Magh-Nuadhat = the plain of Nuadhat, King of Leinster in the 2nd century, A.D.) obtained its celebrity as having been from a very early period a chosen seat of the Kildare Fitzgeralds. Here, A.D.

1426, John, 6th Earl of Kildare, erected a magnificent castle, which was now rebuilt by the Earl of Cork. This palatial residence, now called Carton, continues to be the seat of the Dukes of Leinster. See p. 10. Ibid. 'bayes' = baize. Ibid. 'Play'—See Introduction to vols. iii., iv., and v., in vol. iii. Ibid. 'quairter lo dicen' = quatorze, a game at cards; but qu. = a throwing of dice, bearing the like name? Ibid. 'Bezar stone' = Bezoar stone. See on this, vol. i., 87, and note.

Page 7. 'Lismore'—The rebuilding of the cathedral undertaken at this time by the Earl of Cork was the means of preserving the edifice to our own time. Ibid. 'furnesbing it with seated pues'—Pues or pews (Dutch, puye, puyd; Latin, podium) are commonly believed to have come in with the Reformation; but they existed long before that era. In the Vision of Piers Plowman (ed. 1813, p. 95) we read—

> "Among wyves and woodewes ich am ywoned sute > Y parroked in pues. The person hit knoweth."

In Richard III. (iv. 4) we have—

> "And make her pue-fellow with others moan."

The reader who wishes to follow up this tempting subject will find help in a paper on the "History of Pews" read before the Cambridge Camden Society, Nov. 22, 1841. Ibid. 'a new free School' . . . Page 8. 'Hage' = the Hague in South Holland. See p. 24.

„ 11. 'stamell cloath' = Estame (French), knit-worsted. Ibid. 'the Lord Primate'—The illustrious Ussher, "the glory of the Irish Church and University" (Cotton, s.n. Fasti).

„ 14. 'Mr Lyttiguoe' = William Lithgow, the eccentric traveller, the Scotch Coryat, whose adventures almost reached the marvellous. The following is the title-page of the 'Peregrinations' presented to Lord Cork—"A most Delectable and Trve Discourse of an admired and paineful peregrination from Scotland, to the most famous Kingdoms in Europe, Asia, and Affrike. With the particular Descriptions (more exactly set downe then hath beene heertofore in English) of Italy, Sicilia, Dalmatia, Ilyria, Epiro, Peloponesus, Macedonia, Thessalia, and the whole Continent of Greece, Creta, Rhodes, the Iles Cyclades, with all the Ilands in the Ionian, Ægean, and Adriaticke Seas, &c. . . . By William Lithgow, Scotus. . . . 1614." A second edition was published in 1616, and others in 1623, 1632, 1640, and various later; also Dutch translations in 1652, 1656, 1669. His Irish travels were reprinted in Morgan's "Phœnix Britannicus." His collected "Works" were edited and published in 1864. Charles I.'s copy (large paper) of the "Peregrinations" of 1632 is in the Britwell Library.

Page 15. 'pettidegree'—The Earl of Cork had antiquarian tastes, as many entries of this Diary evince. The pedigree of the Geraldine Desmonds would be full of interest if recoverable. Ibid. 'licensing Alehowses'—Among other expedients for raising money, the State farmed out in this reign licenses for taverns to distinguished personages, who, as patentees, acquired the sole privilege of granting the necessary 'license' to sell wines and other drinks.

„ 17. 'Sir George fflower'—A distinguished military officer from whom is descended Viscount Ashbrook ("Peerage," s.n.).

„ 20. 'Cater' = caterer or purveyor.

„ 20, 22. 'Captain Samuell Newce'—He had married Joan, daughter of Sir Henry Sadler, second son of Sir Ralph Sadler. He was buried next day (April 5) at St. Bride's Church, Dublin. His funeral certificate is in the British Museum, Add. MSS. 4820. See on him, vol. i., p. 3, and note.

„ 23. 'Royall Maske'—See Introduction to vols. iii., iv., and v., in vol. iii.

„ 24. 'Slytting Mill,' not 'Tucking Mill,' as I erroneously stated in note, vol. ii., p. 155; but a mill for slitting or dividing bars of iron into nailrods, as in p. 41.

„ 26. 'Parliament to be houlden in Ireland'—It would demand more space than is available to discuss Lord Wentworth's motives in calling this Parliament, and to set forth its proceedings. The reader may consult Wright's "History of Ireland," vol. i., chapter 22.

„ 29. 'my parliament robes'—These robes cost the Earl of Cork, £66 7*s.* 4*d.* See p. 36. The Lord Deputy spared no pains to give éclat to this Parliament.

Page 31. 'mearing' = marching, i.e., marking off the 'marches,' or 'borders,' or 'boundaries.' See vol. i., p. 278.

„ 33. 'to insert 4 Burgesses names'—Until the Reform Bill of 1830 the 'Patrons' of Boroughs presented whom they would to Parliament. Like parent-chosen child-marriages it is marvellous how well the thing worked.

„ 34. 'The Nass' = Naas, co. of Kildare.

„ 36. 'Carrowmeer'; Ciathrambradh [carhoo] signifies a quarter, from ciatair [cahir], four. The townlands were generally distributed into 'quarters' for convenience sake; and the English name 'quarter' is in many localities the designation of an estate or farm. See vol. ii., p. 145, and note.

„ 37. 'subsedies'—Here was the King's real design in convening this Parliament. Ibid. 'the Lord President' = Sir William St. Leger.

„ 39. 'an angel' = a gold coin impressed with a figure of the archangel Michael = 10*s.* Ibid. 'where the high altar stood'—This formed the objection raised by the Lord Deputy to the position of the great tomb raised in St. Patrick's cathedral by the Earl of Cork. Wentworth prevailed, and the mausoleum was taken down and rebuilt in the nave, where it now stands.

„ 41. 'John Yrish'—He was, in 1615, rector of Ringrone, and vicar of Ahern and Ballynoe, also rector or vicar of Rathcormac. He died in 1636, probably; for his relict, Mary, made her last will, 3 Sep.,

1637, and she therein mentions her widowhood, and names her son Christopher, and her daughters Prudence and Elizabeth (Brady's "Cork Records," ii. 370). Ibid. 'one Mr ffuller.'—Thomas Fullwar held many ecclesiastical appointments in the Church of Ireland. He was rector of Ringrone from 1634 to 1665; Chancellor of Cork, 1639 to 1660; Bishop of Ardfert (with these appointments in commendam), 1641 to 1660, and Archbishop of Cashel from 1660 to 1667. He died 31 March, 1667, aged 74 years, and was buried at St. John's, Cashel.

Page 42. 'Lo. Strandg' = John Murray, eldest son of the Duke of Atholl. Ibid. 'cozen jerman' = cousin germain.

„ 43. 'The Lo. Cromwell' = Thomas Cromwell, fourth Baron Cromwell. His sister Anne was married to Thomas Wingfield, of Powers Court, co. Wicklow. Ibid. 'vtrick' = Utrecht, the Ultra-Trajectum ad Rhenum of the Romans, in Holland.

„ 44. '20 younge carpes'—The Carp (Cyprinus Carpio, Linnæus) was introduced into Ireland by the Earl of Cork (see Robert Boyle's Paper before the Royal Society); and this entry gives us the date, though, perhaps, we will not err if we take these '20 younge carpes' as supplied from a prior introduced stock.

„ 45. 'my book'—The Earl of Cork in recording his lending books is wont to call them 'my book,' and here most probably he meant some book by another, not himself, on the colonization of Ulster.

„ 47. 'the mued Tercell,' &c.—To 'mew' or 'mue' with

Falconers, is for a bird to moult, or cast its feathers. (BAILEY.)

Page 49. 'Armagh' = Arragh, as so often previously. Ibid. 'Peter Wingrove'—See vol. i., p. 82, and note.

„ 50. 'Raleigh'—A very satisfying entry.

„ 52. 'Thomas'—This was the child of his third wife, Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Godfrey Rodes, of Great Houghton, Yorkshire. He died unmarried.

„ 53. 'To know what was the cawse he intended to prosequute me in the castle chamber for'—On this critical matter in his life see our full memoir before the second series of these Lismore Papers. Meantime the student-reader may consult the "State Trials," vol. i.; and also Strafford's 'Trial,' vol. i., pp. 335-336, 342; edition 1719.

„ 55. 'County of the crosse of Tiperarie'—James Butler, who was created Earl of Ormonde, 2 Nov., 1328, married Eleanor, second daughter of Humphrey Bohun, Earl of Hereford and Essex, and of his wife the Princess Elizabeth, daughter of Edward I. To him, for the better support of his dignity, in consideration of his faithful services, and for the consanguinity existing between him and his sovereign, Edward III. granted the regality fees and all other liberties in the co. of Tipperary, along with the prisage of wines in Ireland. The Earl of Ormonde had palatine jurisdiction, by virtue of this grant, over the whole of the shire, saving the lands of the Church. These were designated "The Cross of Tipperary," and had their own sheriffs, and sent their own representatives to the Irish Parliament.

Page 56. 'Pearles'—See on this, vol. i., p. 6, and note; also p. 66, infra. The fresh-water mussel, Unio margaritiferus, has received its designation from the frequency of its producing pearls; and the species found in the lakes and rivers of the south of Ireland is so prolific, that the Rev. J. G. Wood, in his charming book, "Common Shells of the Sea Shore," deems it the pearl-producer par excellence, and believes that it furnished pearls for the British crown. A magnificent Irish pearl is in the possession of G. Gray Crichton, M.D., who writes about it to Prebendary Hayman, from Pier View House, Blackrock, Cork, 17 April, 1886, thus:—

"I bought it on the bank of the Blackwater below Lismore, last September, from a poor man, whose little daughter had found it a short time previously in a live shell about 4 inches long. I think the species is Unio pictorum, so called as the shells were formerly much in use for the delicate colours used by artists and designated 'Painter's River Mussel.' There seems to be a variety of this mussel. The Unio margaritiferus is so prolific in pearls, that regular fisheries were at one time established in England for them. On my buying this pearl (which I shall send you for inspection) the boy who was carrying my fishing bag and gaff, said, 'He was terribly sorry he had lost, through a hole in his pocket, a lot that he had;' and he described them as 'little white marbles,' found in the shells of the mussels when taking out the fish for bait."

It is noticeable that a tributary of the Blackwater at Lismore, the Ownashade (Abhainn-na-sed in Irish), is, when translated into English, its native appellation, 'The river of the jewel' = pearl.

Page 60. 'Inchenebarky' = Inchinabacky, a parish three miles N.W. from Castle Martyr, co. Cork. Ibid. 'meart' (mart, Irish, a cow), a yearly rent of beef. See vol. i., p. 298. Scotice 'mart' or 'mairt' = Winter supply of meat, salted and prepared.

„ 61. 'Kilvary in Carbry' = Kilbarry, a townland in the parish of Fanlobbus, Carbery East, co. Cork.

„ 62. 'my Nephue, Sir Peercie Smyth'—He was son and heir of Sir Richard Smyth, of Ballynetra, near Youghal, and of his wife Mary, sister of the Earl of Cork.

„ 64. 'The pallace'—The old Keltic lisses or forts, when they ceased to be human habitations, were believed by the natives to have lapsed into "Faerie" occupation. Hence the name Palas, or Pailis, a loan-word from the Latin palatium, was given to each as a royal habitation of elvish beings. Ibid. 'departed from Dublin,' &c.—We have here an important item in the chronology of the "Great Earl's" life—his five years' constant residence in the Irish metropolis, during the greater part of which he had acted as Lord Justice of Ireland, in conjunction with Adam Loftus, Viscount Ely, the Irish Lord Chancellor. Ibid. Kilgoan = Kilcullen, 24 miles S.W. from Dublin. Ibid. 'Gawran' = Gowran, 52 miles. Ibid. 'Clonmel,' 82 miles. Ibid. 'Lismoor,' 109 miles, all from Dublin. We have thus another glimpse of travelling in Ireland in the reign of Charles I. No doubt the public roads were at the time in wretched plight.

Page 65. 'Earle of Barrymores' = Castle Lyons, near Fermoy. Ibid. 'poor cozen Crips'—The Earl of Cork's tribe was numerous, and comprised many "poor relations." They seem to have had rare ingenuity in fastening themselves upon him. Ibid. 'Ballynetra'—See pp. 62, 67, 94.

„ 66. 'Burdewx' = Bordeaux. Ibid. 'pearl'—See vol. i., p. 6, and note; also p. 56 and note.

„ 67. 'Xtned'—See on this word, note in vol. ii., p. 189.

„ 68. 'answer'—viz., to the indictment of Sir William Ryves, the Attorney-General of Ireland. See more on next page.

„ 70. "Malleheid' = Malahide. Ibid. 'Sir peercie Smyth . . . Mrs Issabell vscher'—He had married previously Mary, daughter of Robert Meade, Esq., who deceased 27 Nov., 1633, leaving four daughters. His new wife was daughter of Arthur Ussher, Esq., (by his wife Judith, daughter of Sir Robert Newcomen), son of Sir William Ussher, Clerk of the Council, by Isabella, daughter of Adam Loftus, D.D., Archbishop of Dublin.

„ 71. 'Richard Blacknol'—The Earl of Cork's suits with this man about his ironworks have been frequently mentioned in this Diary. He must have been an unmitigated scoundrel; for his master gave him his absolute confidence, and yet he betrayed and plundered him on all hands.

„ 72. 'Mr John Archdeacon of Moncktown'—By a singular coincidence, between Dublin and the sea, and between Cork and the sea, are marine villages adjacent, and called respectively "Blackrock" and "Monkstown." It is the Cork "Monkstown" that is here intended; for here was the estate of the ancient Devon family of Archdekne, or Archdeken. Monkstown Castle was built by this John Archdecken, in the year 1636. It is a noble quadrangular pile, with great flanking towers; and it occupies the site of a yet finer feudal fortress, which cost (according to tradition) but a groat! Anastasia Gould, the Lady of the manor of Marmullane, as the district was called, during her husband's absence in foreign wars resolved to welcome him on his return to a house of her own erection. She engaged workmen, and made with them the stipulation that purchases, whether of food or clothing, should be made solely of herself. Accordingly, this inventor of the "Truck" system, became importer of all necessary stores, and charged her labourers a moderate commission on the sales. When the works were finished she made up her debtor and creditor reckoning, and found herself minus fourpence precisely. The Archdeckens, having embraced the fortunes of the Stuarts, forfeited their estates in the year 1689; and Monkstown Castle, with Marmullane manor, is now the property of Viscount de Vesci.

Page 74. 'yongest son'—I note, as previously, the estates in Ireland (here in the counties of Dublin and Wicklow) set apart by the Earl for this his 'yongest' and greatest son.

Page 75. 'Lady Elizabeth Fitzgerald'—This grandchild was born 7 December, 1631. (See vol. iii., p. 111.)

„ 77. 'the purcevant'—This word ought earlier to have been noted. The 'pursuivants' were the fourth or lowest class of heraldic officers, named Cursores by Upton, and Currours by Gerard Leigh. They were foot-messengers, who carried upon their girdle their despatch-boxes, painted with the arms of their lords. The Earl of Cork employed the term in a legal, not heraldic sense; and designated by it the messengers or bailiffs of the Irish law-courts.

„ 79. 'chapelyn's . . . wife'—It is extremely satisfying to come upon the many evidences of the "Great Earl's" kindness of heart in unostentatious entries like this.

„ 80. 'freely'—Usually it was a thing of buying and selling (underhand).

„ 81. 'Mynooth' = Maynooth, the Earl of Kildare's seat. Ibid. 'Letrym,' &c. = Leitrim, Clondulane, Macroney, and Kilcrumper. These benefices are now united with those of Fermoy and Kilworth, co. Cork.

„ 83. 'carrickm^{t} griffen' = Carrick-on-Suir, a market and post town, 13 miles from Waterford.

„ 85. 'M^{r} wiseman.'—He was King's escheator in co. Cork. "He was" (writes Bennett, in his History of Bandon, p. 95) "the eldest son of Simon Wiseman, one of the original Bandon colonists, and was appointed a freeman of the Bandon Corporation, 1628. His first wife was Katherine, eldest daughter of the renowned poet Spenser, with whom he lived on the banks of "the pleasant Bandon," as Spenser himself has named it; and in a spacious residence, now alas! a hopeless ruin, with nothing left but a crumbling wall to represent what was once the castle of Kilbegge. Here Spenser's daughter died; and from within its scarcely defined enclosure, where docks and nettles now flourish in undisturbed luxuriance, her remains were borne to the graveyard of her parish church in Bandon; and there under the shadow of the spire of the oldest Protestant edifice in Ireland, and beneath spreading chestnuts and elms, is her grave—fitting resting-place for a child of the immortal bard. En passant, it may be here recorded that in this same churchyard [Kilbrogan, Bandon] are laid other members of the Bandon family, e.g., Thomas Spenser, son of Nathaniel Spenser, was buried here in 1729; John, another son of the same, in 1730; and Nathaniel, a third son, in 1732. Nathaniel Spenser (son of the Poet) was "lay impropriator of Temple Brady, co. Cork, in 1699, as had been Hugolin Spenser in 1687." (BRADY'S "Cork Records," vol. i., p. 331, and BENNETT, as before, s. n.) Mr. Wiseman died at Drinagh in 1639. According to Bennett, the late Cardinal Wiseman was a "lineal descendant" of this William Wiseman and his wife Katharine Spenser. The doctrine of heredity will explain the vein of poetic feeling and culture undoubtedly shown by this distinguished Cardinal. It is interesting to note how the Earl of Cork kept up in every possible way his relations with the Spensers.

Page 86. 'Sherwyn'—Of him Cotton ("Fasti," vol. i., p. 179) writes: "Treasurer of Lismore, 1617. Thomas Sherron (i.e., Sherwin), Scholaris, collated October 15; installed January 13, 161$\frac{7}{8}$." [Regal Visitation.] Scholaris, or Student, was (he annotates) "a person not of full age, who was allowed to hold his church preferment while he was pursuing his studies at the University; a custom not unusual in these lax times." There was and (practically) still is in England the like thing in some aged incumbent, or compliant 'friend,' holding a benefice against the coming of age of son or other relative of the 'patron.' So that England need not moralize over Ireland. A flagrant modern example was Charles Kingsley's father, 'holding' a living for a defined number of years, as told in the great Eversley Rector's Life.

„ 87. 'Edgworth'—I note with satisfaction this honoured name. Francis Edgeworth, clerk of the Hanaper in 1619, married Jane, daughter of Sir Edmund Tuite, knight, of Sonna, Westmeath; and his descendant in the fifth remove was the late Richard Lovell Edgeworth of Edgeworthstown, co. Longford, father of Maria Edgeworth the authoress (see Burke's "Landed Gentry"). Ibid. 'Sir Richardo weston' = Earl of Rutland. He died 13 March, 163$\frac{4}{5}$. Ibid. 'county of Waterford'—It now contains eight baronies, which are subdivided into 1,653 townlands. The precis of its civil state two centuries and a half ago is valuable.

„ 88. 'sumpter cloath' = horse trappings.

Page 89. 'gracedue' = Grace Dieu, a country seat in the liberties of the city of Waterford still is known. Ibid. 'Nangles'—Until the Editor's discovery that Elizabeth Boyle was the wife of Edmund Spenser, the many entries in 'Nangles' had a special interest, as according to the Anglo-American theory and Spenser-critics, a 'Nangle' was accounted as having been his 'lady-love.' See our "Works of Spenser" (vol. i., Life).

„ 91. 'eight lawiers'—These were to act as the Earl's Counsel in the suit brought against him by Sir William Ryves, the Attorney General. His leading Counsel, the Solicitor-General, Edmond Bolton, was afterwards made Baron of the Exchequer (1639).

„ 92. 'Rating . . . subsedy' = that the Irish Peers, through seven representatives named by the Lord Deputy, were to rate themselves for a subsidy to the crown. Arbitrary government and fatuity walked hand in hand. And yet even at this late day the Charleses are held in ultra sanctitude!

„ 93. 'Sir vincent Gookins'—Bennett ("History of Bandon," p. 243, note) gives a full account of this Kentish family. Notices of them will also be found in "Notes and Queries" (third series, vol. ii., pp. 324, 397, 472, 495: also vol. iv., p. 438). Sir Vincent Gookin married a daughter of Sir Thomas Crooke of Baltimore, and left issue. For many generations the Gookins lived at Courtmac Sherry, co. Cork. The last male heir, Robert, when a mere youth, was accidentally killed at Castle Bernard, near Bandon, co. Cork, in the summer of 1760. I have not been able to discover in what manner Sir Vincent "traduced and highly scandalized" the kingdom; for which 'offence' the Earl of Cork sought his punishment.

Page 94. 'Ballynetra'—This name has occurred repeatedly in this Diary. It is a lovely seat on the river Blackwater, a few miles from its embouchure at Youghal. It has been for more than two centuries the residence of the Smyth family (not the plebeian Smith). Its present owner is the Honourable Charles More Smyth, who married, 18 Jan., 1848, Charlotte Mary, only surviving child and heiress of Richard Smyth, Esq., of Ballynatray, and of his wife, the Hon. Harriette St. Leger, daughter of Hayes, second Viscount Doneraile.

„ 97. 'sign in Caperiecorn' = Capricorn. As before noted, the Earl throughout is careful to record the astrological signs at births of his children and grandchildren.

„ 98. 'the proxces and 20th due to the King and the Bischop of Corke, owt of the Colledg of yoghall.'—As the College revenues were wholly in the Earl of Cork's hands, he was liable to the several charges upon them. "Proxies" were "annual payments made by the parochial clergy to the bishops, &c., on visitations" (BAILEY). In the early ages of the church, the bishops went about their dioceses to instruct the people and preach, to discover and correct abuses, and to inspect the fabrics and furniture of the churches. These "Visitations" were made annually, and on such occasions the charges of travelling and maintenance were met by "procurations," which were levied on the clergy as they were severally visited. These payments were thus designated because the clergyman into whose parish the bishop came was obliged to procure victuals, provender, and full accommodation for his visitors. Bishops' retinues were often large, and this maintenance grew burdensome to the clergy, who, on representing this hardship, were given the option of paying their "procurations" or "proxies" in money, and at a rate fixed for each benefice. The King's Rent takes us back to the Papal taxations of the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries, when the several Popes granted to the Kings of England the tithes of all Irish ecclesiastical estates for prosecuting the (so-called) Holy Wars. In the taxation of the diocese of Cloyne, made in 1302 by Pope Boniface VIII., I read concerning Youghal parish :—"Ecclesia de Ygohel, cujus rector est hoc anno Nicholas de Cler, vicarius Robert de Halywell, taxatur ad xxv^{li}, decima L^{s}." The "20th due to the King," may, however, have been one of the enforced 'subsidies' grasped by the unhappy Charles I. Among letters from the Lords President of Munster to the Mayor of Youghal, which are preserved in the Corporate chest of that burgh, is one from Sir William St. Leger, dated at Mallow, 29 July, 1629, and ordering that the sum of £55 4*s*. 0*d*. be levied on the town for the support of his troops. The Lord President added :—"In w^{ch} Levie such Impropriacion is to be charged w^th^ a full Twentieth part yearlie of the cleer yearlie value thereof, over and above the Kinge's Rent, the Proxies and Curates' stipends, as by my several former L'res hath bin directed."

„ 100. 'palliace in cou[nty] cross Tiperary.'—See this explained in note to p. 64, antè. See also p. 101, l. 23.

„ 101. 'Rent paiable,' &c.—These were the customary covenants of leases at this period: viz., 1. The place was named where the rent was to be paid. 2. The dates of payment, commonly half-yearly, at Lady Day and Michaelmas. 3. One or more horsemen, or footmen, or both, to be ready, as a contribution to the militia. 4. Some produce of the land, in this instance "2 cramb [= crammed] capons." 5. "sute of court," i.e., to attend the Lessor's Court of Leet, when summoned. 6. A heriot ["Here," lord, and "Gat," beast, according to Sir Edward Coke], the best beast that a tenant has at his decease was thereby forfeited to the lord of the manor. 7. Using the manor mills solely for the grinding of corn.

„ 102. 'respits of Homage' = legal payments. Ibid. 'My noble deceased frend, Sir Humfrey Maye'—He had been Master of the Rolls, England. See further mention in pp. 111 and 112.

„ 104. 'Peeter Cook'—He was of Ipswich, Suffolk. He had four sons, Thomas, Robert, Edward, and Peter, from whom are descended numerous families of the name now flourishing in the counties of Cork, Tipperary, and Westmeath. Their history will be found in Burke's "Landed Gentry." Ibid. 'pilchers' = pelicium, toga pellice, or pilch, a cloak or covering for cold weather, generally made of fur. Pylche, in Saxon, means a skin coat, and in our old dramatists the term is applied to a buff or leather jerkin. Chaucer uses it to signify a furred gown. We have the word reappearing in pelisse, an anglicized French word on everyone's lips.

Page 105. 'The dean kneeling down on his knees,' &c.—No such usage now obtains in either the Church of England or of Ireland. Communicants receive the Bread and Wine kneeling; but the officiating minister delivers these elements to them standing. Henry Tilson, M.A., an Englishman, educated at Oxford, chaplain to the Lord Deputy, was at the time Dean of Christ Church Cathedral, and this strange procedure on his part may have been done proprio motu, or it may have been prompted by Archbishop Laud.

„ 107. 'corn powder' = grained, as distinct from ground powder. Ibid. 'Robert Boyle'—These provisions for the after-philosopher again to be noted.

„ 108. 'Sir G. Wentworth'—He was third son of Sir William Wentworth, of Wentworth Woodhouse, Yorkshire, and he was at this time Commander of the Forces in Ireland, and a Privy Councillor of that kingdom. He married Frances, daughter and co-heir of Sir Francis Ruishe, Knight, of Sarre, in the Isle of Thanet, and left a son, Ruishe Wentworth, of Sarre, who married Susanna, sister of James Adye, of Burham, Kent, by whom one only child and heir, Mary, who married Thomas, Lord Howard of Effingham.

Page 109. 'Boyle Smyth . . . to be entred in the art of warr'—This custom of foreign study for our officers reached our own times. The illustrious Wellington, having been educated at Eton, went to the Military College of Angiers, in Anjou, France. Numerous other instances occur to me, but they are unnecessary. Ibid. 'bed-steddles,' = bedsteads.

„ 110. 'indifferent' = impartial. Ibid. 'impertinent' = irrelevant.

„ 112. 'exaied' = examined.

„ 114. 'great sheete winged Hawks.' See vol. i., pp. 257, 300.

„ 115. 'Relavor' = reliever; but see 'Relator' = delay or postponement (as in p. 116, line 1). Ibid. 'the poste ffynes'—On suing out a writ, or præcipe, there is due to the Sovereign, by ancient prerogative, a primer fine, being "a noble" for every five marks of lands sued for; and, as the suit is approaching settlement, there is another fine, the King's silver, as it is called, or sometimes the post fine (with respect to the other fine), being as much again and half as much more. [BLACKSTONE.]

„ 117. 'my lo. of dunluce' = Sir Randal MacSorley MacDonnell was created 28 May, 1618, Viscount Dunluce, and advanced, 12 Dec., 1620, to the Earldom of Antrim. From him descends the Earl of Antrim (see "Peerage").

„ 119. 'Watch hens'—These are often mentioned in old leases, e.g., the Corporation of Youghal, 7 Oct., 1608, demised to Richard Segerstone a garden without the south gate for twenty-one years, at viii^{li} per annum, and "a Watch-hen at Sheraftyde [Shrovetide]:" "Watch-hen" = one brooding, and uttering a clucking noise in consequence. Ibid. 'to entitle the King . . . [to] that province' = to proclaim the king therein, and publish his title. But see also p. 125, and note.

„ 121. 'the great Golde Ring'—Vide Introductions. Ibid. 'Maismer' = Maismore, near the city of Gloucester. It was probably after this 'kinsman' the earl had been named, and as a godson had received from him this gift.

„ 122. 'Sir Edd: Harris & Justice cressy'—For Sir Edmund Harris, see vol. i., p. 125, note. Hugh Cressy, third Justice of the King's Bench, Ireland, was so appointed by patent, 21 June, 1633. He died in 1644. Ibid. 'encanty' = Moylen Canty, vol. iv., p. 12.

„ 123. 'the spitall'—See vol. ii., p. 10, note. Ibid. 'high sheriff . . . ffyned in a thowsand pownds ster.'—Such high-handed treatment fills us with amazement.

„ 125. 'This day [September 9th, 1635] . . . I sent my two youngest sons ffrances and Robert Boyle,' &c.—We have here an invaluable entry. Robert Boyle, now nine years old, and his brother Francis, with Carew their servant, and under the charge of their father's servant, Thomas Badnedge, leave Lismore to embark at Youghal for England. The two lads are "to be schooled and bredd at Eaton," and their father writes, "as my worthie frend, Sir Henry wotton, provost of Eaton colledg, should direct and order them, to whome I wrott to that purpose." Sir Henry Wotton's name calls up personal memories, and the reverend shade of Izaak Walton. Waiting for a ship, or, more likely, for a favourable wind, the voyagers do not leave Youghal until September 24th (p. 131), but their journey is prosperous, and Badnedge, their guardian, having left them in safety, lands on his return at Dublin, where the Earl of Cork is at the time sojourning, October 29th, with letters. See full Memoir of the Earl of Cork, as before.

„ 127. 'rout' = a close, in this place. Generally, it means a measure of land. Ibid. 'Gortsufflyn . . the Moorties lands . . Mylloon'—Designations of land not now known at Youghal. Ibid. 'goodman' [Wray]—"a country appellation for a Master of a family." [BAILEY.]

„ 129. 'Robert Boyle'—A further record of Robert Boyle. At Eton, he is committed "to the tuicon of M^r^ John Harrison, cheef Schoolmaster there." We hold his name in reverence.

„ 130. 'horslytter'—I have before me a pictorial representation of "Travelling by Horse-litter;" and I am impressed with its comfort and convenience. This was, perhaps, the earliest kind of vehicle in England; and when roads were such more in name than in reality, it was the safest as well as the simplest. There are two long poles, bearing in centre a car of state, or palanquin, with an awning, and a fair traveller gazing out through an uplifted part of the curtain; a postillion is riding on the leading horse, into whose harness the front six feet of the poles are joined as shafts; and a second horse, guided also by a rider, carries the latter portion of the poles in its trappings. The Horse-litter was introduced into England from the south of Europe, where it was found useful in traversing mountain ranges, and where it exists to the present day. In those countries mules are the animals employed, but with our people horses only were used. That these litters were sometimes very splendid, is evident from Holinshed's description of the one which was employed at the coronation of Queen Katherine, wife of Henry VIII. :—"Then came the Queene in a litere of white clothe of golde, not covered nor vailed, which was led by two palfreys clad in white damask doone to the ground, head and all, led by two footemen. Over her was borne a canopie of cloth of golde, with four gilt starrs and four gilt bells, for the bearing of which canopie were appointed sixteen knights, foure to bear it one space on foot, and other foure another space."

Page 131-2. 'negation' = negotiation or business. Ibid. 'a Bason and Ewer of 250 ownces . . . to quicken the dispatch of his masters lettres,' &c. This 'feeing' of secretaries and their clerks yet further reveals the mercenary spirit in all transactions in this reign. The phraseology 'to quicken the dispatch,' is very noticeable.

„ 134. 'Rathgogan' = Charleville, as before.

„ 136. 'John Allen being in prison . . . I lent his wife,' &c. —Another instance of the Earl of Cork's tenderness of heart. Ibid. 'Cockram' = Cockram, or Cockeram, as before.

„ 137. 'carrowmeer'—See vol. ii., p. 375. The 'Mr. Gibbons' is Simon Gibbons, already mentioned in p. 100.

„ 138. 'exhibicon' = allowance. Ibid. 'mols clothes'—Still so named—query, from its resemblance to the velvet skin of the mole?

„ 139. 'Annagh' = Arragh, or Arra, in Tipperary, as before.

„ 140. 'phillip cook'—He is called 'Peter' in page 104, correctly.

„ 141. 'the L. mountnorres' = Sir Francis Annesley, Lord Mount Norris, 8 February, 1628. The charge against him, upon which he was tried and condemned to death by a council of war, was thus set forth by the Lord Deputy himself:—"That within three or four days, or thereabouts, after the end of the parliament, it being mentioned at the Lord Chancellor's table, that after we, the Lord Deputy, had dissolved the parliament, being sitting down in the presence chamber, one of our servants in moving a stool, happened to hurt our foot, then indisposed through an accession of gout; that one, then present at the Lord Chancellor's table, said to the Lord Mountnorris being there likewise, that it was Annesley, his lordship's kinsman, and one of our the Lord Deputy and General's Gentlemen ushers, had done it: whereupon the Lord Mountnorris then publiquely and in a scornful contemptuous manner answered, 'Perhaps it was done in revenge of that public affront which my Lord Deputy had done him formerly; but he has a brother that would not take such a revenge.'" This "public affront" the Lord Deputy further explained in the manner following:—"That his said kinsman, being one of the horse-troop commanded by us the Lord Deputy, in the time of exercising the said troop, was out of order on horseback, to the disturbance of the rest thus exercising; for which we, the Lord Deputy, in a mild manner reproving, as soon as we turned aside from him, we observed him to laugh and jeer us for our just reproof of him; which we disliking returned to him, and laying a small cane (which we then carried) on his shoulders, yet without any blow or stroke then given him therewith, told him that, if he did serve us so any more, we would lay him over the pate." And the Lord Deputy drew this inference thus against Lord Mountnorris:—"We conceive offence to contain an incitement to revenge in these words, 'But he has a brother that would not take such a re- venge.' Which incitement might have given encouragement to that brother, being then and now in this kingdom, and lieutenant of the said Lord Mountnorris' foot company." Upon this frivolous accusation Lord Mountnorris was found guilty and adjudged—"To be imprisoned, to stand henceforth deprived from all the places, with the entertainments due thereunto, which he holds now in the army, to be disarmed, to be banished the army, and disabled from ever bearing office therein hereafter; and, lastly, to be shot to death, or to lose his head, at the pleasure of the general. Given at his Majesty's Castle of Dublin, 12th day of December, 1635." Although the extremity of this iniquitous sentence was not put into execution, Lord Mountnorris was deprived, in conformity with it, of all his offices, and confined in the castle of Dublin for nearly a year and a half. Ibid. 'censured' = adjudged.

Page 142. 'very nobly and neighbor lyke'—This is a "very noble" record of the Earl of Cork's bearing towards one who had brought such heavy legal proceedings against him, and shown such malignant enmity as Lord Wentworth had done. See also p. 148.

„ 143. 'cath' = Catharine.

„ 144. 'exaiator' = examinator. See p. 145, l. 2.

„ 145. 'M^{r} Thomas ffrythe'—He was Vicar-General of the diocese of Ross, and Archdeacon in 1639. In the rebellion of 1641 he lost goods and property to the amount of £1,126, along with his church livings, worth annually £230, and his jurisdictions in the dioceses of Ardfert and Ross, worth £70 (MS. T.C.D., F. 2, 18).

Page 146. 'Michael Boyle, Lo. Bicshop of Lismore & Waterford'—In Cotton's "Fasti Eccles. Hist.," vol. i., pp. 126, 127, this prelate's life and labours are given. The date of his decease is stated to have been December 27th, not 29th, as in the Diary. He was interred in Waterford Cathedral.

„ 147. 'mawe' = pale-maille: see vol. ii., p. 408. Ibid. 'tragedie in the parliament hous.' See Introductions. Ibid. 'sixe subsedies graunted in parliament by the nobilletye'—This self-imposed taxation was oppressive, as we may judge from the Earl of Cork's share, £3,600, equal to about £20,000 of our present currency. Yet it was repeated all through the reign. Ibid. 'St. warboroughes' = St. Werburgh.

„ 148. 'his brothers marriadge'—See p. 108, note, and annotation.

„ 149. 'M. Macrobius'—See full life of the "Great Earl," as before; also "Correspondence" in second series of these "Lismore Papers."

„ 150. 'My daughter . . . having at play loste £90'—We now and then get glimpses of the dissipation of high life in this reign. Betting and gambling were customary; and the fair sex took their share in playing for money as well as men. The "Great Earl" was soft toward his children.

„ 151. 'The earle of Kildare having pawned,' &c. Many documents are extant illustrative of loans of money having been obtained in this century, and indeed long before and after, from private persons by necessitous nobles and gentle folk; plate, jewels, and rent-rolls being deposited for security. There are also Wills, in which the testator, as in honour bound, carefully describes articles of value in his custody, and which had been unredeemed by the individuals to whom he had lent money, the several sums thus advanced being at the same time duly set forth. Ibid. 'vse money' = interest. Ibid. 'vmperadge' = mediatory decision.

Page 152. 'the two Inquisicons taken in the counties of Corke and Waterford, after thattainder of Sir Walter Raleigh' —These are of record in the Exchequer, Dublin; and copies are with Prebendary Hayman, who informs me that the first was taken, 31 March, 1604, at the city of Cork, before Nicholas Kenney, escheator-general, and feodary virtute officii, by Edmund Coppinger, his deputy; and the second at Tallagh, in the co. of Waterford, three days afterwards, 2 April, by the same functionary. The findings of the juries are of considerable interest, describing as they do minutely the estates of Raleigh in these counties, along with the tenants' names and the rents paid severally for their holdings. Edwards' and other biographies of Raleigh are extremely unsatisfactory and perfunctory on the Irish chapters of the great Englishman's life.

„ 155. 'the Lo. Mountnorres'—See p. 141.

„ 157. 'M^r W^m Wiseman' — The decease of Edmund Spenser's son-in-law (see p. 242) deserves attention. Ibid. 'Gartrude'—As the earl wrote phonetically, we have here the Caroline pronunciation of this pretty female name. Ibid. 'Mr Marcombus'—A Frenchman ('Mownsier Macrobius,' in p. 149, where his high recommendations are given).

Page 158. 'counterfetters of the brass farthing tokens'—We have had several notices of these forgers already. Ibid. 'Wm stanly of Hooton' = A scion of the great Derby family.

„ 159. 'thadventure and chardg'—An entry of significance showing the (then) unsettled state of the country.

„ 160. 'owld'—This is the present-day pronunciation of "old" by the humbler classes of Ireland. I have already remarked that (so-called) "vulgarisms" are but the retention of forms of speech, when they have become obsolete among educated folks. See p. 163, 'an owlde demaund;' p. 164, 'sowld' = sold.

„ 161. '*offers me but lxiij*li,' &c.—i.e. for the impropriate tithes. This is further illustrated by John Shepheard's lease, in p. 169. Ibid. 'singled' = signalled or summoned.

„ 162. 'Trencher' = dinner plates.

„ 165. 'lent . . . vppon securety of plate'—See of this usage an explanation in p. 151, and note. Ibid. 'daughter dongarvan'—See full Life of the Earl, as before.

„ 166. 'civillianex' = civilianer, recte civilian, "one that professes the knowledge of the old Roman law." (Bacon, cited by Johnson, s.v.)

„ 168. 'seclude' = exclude.

„ 169. 'Kiddlether' = Kid leather.

Page 170. 'lo. Roch'—David Roche, Viscount Fermoy, was buried in the Abbey of Bridgetown, 12 April, "with a solemn funeral according to his degree." (Burke's "Extinct Peerage.") Spenser was sadly worried by this nobleman. Ibid. 'Castletown' = Castletown Roche, in the co. of Cork. Ibid. 'Mr Richard Jermyn'—He was an Oxford graduate, and held many preferments in the diocese of Cloyne. (Brady's "Cork Records," vol. ii., p. 367.)

„ 171. 'sute of court and mill' = doing "homage" at the court of leet, and grinding all grain at the manor mill.

„ 172. 'Robert Boyle'—We have here the manors of Trim and Moyare, in the co. of Meath, settled (after his own decease) by the Earl of Cork, "for and to thvse of my son Robert Boyle, and to the first issue male of his boddie." See further lands in pp. 174, 225, et alibi.

„ 173. 'Skiddies Castle in Corke'—Vide vol. ii., pp. 233, 234, 242, et alibi.

„ 176. 'Robert ffitz Stephen . . . phillip de Capella, ancestor to William Supple'—Philip de Capell accompanied Fitz Stephen into Ireland, and had large grants for his military services there. These lands, comprising the estate of Ahadoe, near Killeagh, co. Cork, are yet held by the original tenure of knight's service, viz., the annual presentation of a pair of spurs at Easter. Capell was in French Des Chapelles, in Irish, Sheapéallh; and was corrupted into "Supple." This William Supple married Katharine, daughter of Sir Richard Smyth, of Ballynatray, and of his wife Mary, sister of the Earl of Cork.

Page 177. 'the Lo. dockwaies accompt'—Sir Henry Docwra, created Baron Dockwra of Culmore, co. Derry, by patent, 15 May, 1621, was Treasurer at War for Ireland at this period. Ibid. 'his Ma^tie licens, and pasport'—The passport system yet survives; and the royal licence to travel, while extinct with us, is in full force in Russia.

„ 179. 'Tarras' = terrace. Ibid. 'left the marraidge of my son and heir to his disposall'! We hardly realize our liberties in the present day, unless we contrast them with the thraldom to the executive in which even the nobles were held in other reigns.

„ 180. 'doom' = judgment, or decision. Ibid. 'ffyle' = the list of causes 'filed.' Ibid. 'mean' = medium in general.

„ 181. 'the Small pockes'—The references to this malady in this Diary, show how rife it was in the Earl of Cork's day. Nathan Bailey's definition is suggestive: "SMALL POX, a Disease, the Epidemical Distemper of England." This eminent Lexicographer died A.D. 1742.

„ 183. 'iuste some' = without deduction.

„ 184. 'Ransome'—Word and thing are in revived use to-day.

„ 185. 'dampned' = adjudged. Ibid. 'the perfideous L. Bp. of Cork,' &c. = Richard Boyle, brother of Michael Boyle, Bishop of Waterford, was advanced to the sees of Cork, Cloyne, and Ross (then, as now, united) by patent, 24 October, 1620; and 30 May, 1638, he was translated to Tuam. Lord Cork, as we have seen, had many indigent cousins. Here was one who, he tells us, had been "a poor schoolmaster at Barnett, where he had but a stipend of 20^{li} ster. per annum."

Page 187. 'avoyde' = void. Ibid. 'Bp. Lyons'—The Bishop William Lyon, associated with the poet Spenser. Ibid. 'Ellorne' = Eleanor. Ibid. 'Ullick' = Alexander. So Scotice Allic and Aelic.

„ 191. 'Archie Armstrong, the Kings Jester'—See Introduction to vols. i. and ii. Archie must have been wise in his generation, to have accumulated '150 and od pownds.' The 'god forgive me,' points at the Earl spending 'v^{li}' on a motley fool! See Introductions.

„ 192. 'Hoath' = Howth. Ibid. 'purchace of the Mannor of Stalbridge' — Stalbridge, in the Domesday "Staplebridge," is about seven miles and a half distant from Sherborne, Dorsetshire. We have fuller accounts hereafter of this purchase; rendered famous for ever, as it became, on the Earl of Cork's decease, the property and residence of Robert Boyle.

„ 195. 'M^{rs} Yrishe'—Wife of John Irish, Rector of Ringrone, co. Cork. He has been named before in this Diary.

„ 197. 'warie' = very. His Lordship, in his spelling and pronunciation, is no better than Sam Weller. Ibid. 'defaulked' = abated, or deducted.

„ 201. 'my Lo. primate 4 manuscript books of Religion, bound vp in quarto'—It is disappointing that the journalist has not given us the titles of these writings of Primate Ussher. In all probability they exist in the Library of Trinity College, Dublin. Ibid. 'vske' = a parish in the county of Kildare, four miles south from Kilcullen, on the road to Baltinglass.

Page 202. 'adwardsonen or vmper' = awarder, or umpire.

„ 204. 'my daughters Mary and peggie'—The Lady Mary Boyle, born 11 November, 1624, was married sine prole to Charles, Earl of Warwick, and died 12 April, 1678. The Lady Margaret Boyle, born 30 April, 1629, died unmarried. See full Life of the Earl, as before. Ibid. 'Jerman' = German.

„ 205. 'goshawk to ffly this somer'—Hawks, so often mentioned in these pages, were a constant source of amusement at this period. Ibid. 'three brace of wolf dogs.' See vol. ii., p. 305, and note.

„ 207. 'ffree school' . . . 'almeshowses'—These are maintained in undiminished usefulness, only that the Free School now lifts up its head as a "College," and haughtily charges for the education it gives to the rising male generation.

„ 209. 'Buttevant . . . Monyyeag [? Ballybeg] . . . ffor & to thvse (after my decease) of my yongest son Robert Boyle'—Every mention of his name is interesting.

„ 210. 'Serpentyne stone'—Bailey defines it: "A greenish sort of marble speckled with black, plentifully found in the north-east parts of Germany: it turns very well in a lathe, and has its name from a virtue attributed to it, viz., That it detects Poison by changing its colour, if any be poured upon it, or into any vessel made of it." The Earl of Cork, it will be observed, assigns to it medicinal properties.

Page 211. 'Weighed and carried him the 800*li in golde*'—"Weighing" gold was, of course, a necessity, for protection's sake. But this may not mean the testing of each coin separately by weight. Cashiers throw a number of sovereigns into the scales at once; and, with practised skill, detect deficiencies from the standard weight. Packets of silver of £5 are also so tested. Ibid. 'Blaet' = Bluet, a Devonshire name, but current at Youghal.

„ 213. 'baise' = baize cloth.

„ 214. 'the prechers ordeneries and wyne'—We had mention of this weekly lecture at Tallagh; and here is the "ordinary," or luncheon, provided. Ibid. 'the chardges of my two sons, ffrances & Robert Boyle, at Eaton'—Very interesting is the arrangement for the settlement of their school fees. Until the general establishment of banks, payments were always made by bills of exchange between friends or their correspondents.

„ 215. 'Andirons' = hand irons or fire irons.

„ 217. 'Sir Philip Sydneis Arcadia'—I do not pass over unnoticed any literary work referred to by the Earl of Cork, and least of all would let this go by.

„ 218. 'My Tarras at Lismoor'—This is in perfect condition to-day.

„ 221. 'the Lo. Bischop of Lymerick'=George Webb, D.D., appointed 1634, died 1641.

Page 222. 'guillets' = quilletts, see vol. i., p. 285.

„ 225. 'Ballydingen, Kilcreyn, and Ballybrittas'—We have here further lands for "my yongest son, Robert Boyle."

„ 227. 'dizart' = desertum: vol. i., p. 115 and note, et alibi.

„ 228. The entries here set forth the Earl of Cork's great revenues. He divides among his five sons, as annual allowances, £17,000, equal to £100,000 per annum of our currency.
